VOTE MONDAY ON COOLIDGE FARM BILL VETO

Washington, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The Senate vote in an attempt to override the President's veto of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill went over today until Monday.

THE PRESIDENT vetoed the McNary-Haugen farm bill, and on the Chicago Board of Trade wheat immediately went up one cent and a half a bushel.

If wheat goes up high enough and cotton follows, between now and 1928 farmers won't miss their McNary-Haugen bill.

IN HIS VETO the President says that "the bill is unconstitutional, would not benefit the farmer, and is unworkable."

However, Mr. Coolidge was elected President to veto any bill that should be in his opinion unconstitutional or unwise. He

70-MILE GALE SWEEPS PATH OF RUIN ACROSS N. E.; BIG HUB DAMAGE

Two men lost their lives today and property damage estimated at $2,000,000 was caused in a storm of sleet, snow and rain which ripped across New England in a 70-mile-an-hour gale, disrupting trans-Atlantic radio telephone service as it coursed.

Damage estimated at more than $1,000,000 was caused to telephone lines alone. Trans-Atlantic service, wrecked somewhere east of Portland, Me., was restored by a roundabout circuit after it was discovered that the emergency circuit had broken down along with the main line.

In Boston Harbor scores of large and small vessels were torn from their moorings to endanger shipping, and throughout the city and suburbs cellars were flooded and fires extinguished by water pouring in from streets in which gutters and drains were clogged with snow.

One more grim tragedy of the sea was written into New England coastwise annals by the gale when a [illegible] barge went down off Point Judith, R. I. Five men clung desperately to an overturned lifeboat until rescued by a tug, but two

HULTMAN 'BOMB SHELL' HITS FIRE DEPARTMENT

On the eve of his departure for a vacation in Bermuda, Fire Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman today exploded a bombshell in the rank and file of the fire department by announcing a drastic system of periodic shake-ups for the department.

The commissioner declared there has been a deplorable lack of discipline in the department for the last ten years, which his new system of transfers was intended to remedy.

FIN. COM. WILL PROBE M'GRATH GRAFT CHARGE

Regardless of "whom they hit," the graft charges brought by City Councillor Joseph McGrath involving Nathaniel F. P. Nichols, the Mayor's brother, will be the subject of early investigation by the Finance Commission, Chairman Charles L. Carr announced today.

McGrath specifically charged that the Mayor's brother shares with contractor Biggs, who was awarded a $225,000 contract for removal of city ashes, in irregular profits of $158 a week in connection with the underpayment of men employed by Biggs.

SAYS "PREPOSTEROUS"

The Mayor's brother denied all knowledge of the [illegible] and characterized the charges as "preposterous and without foundation."

FRIENDS SEE CHAPLIN RECONCILIATION NEAR

New York, Feb. 26.—"I would not be surprised to see Charlie Chaplin and his wife kiss and make up. It may prove to be just one of those things that start off with a row and end up peacefully."

This startling belief, which may throw a sensationally new light on the controversy between Charlie Chaplin and Lita Grey Chaplin, was expressed by Joseph M. Schenck, head of the United Artists Corporation.

The film magnate denies having made any attempt to bring about the possible reconciliation. He claims the motion picture executives have no control over their stars.

'JORDAN AND I PLANNED MAIL TRAIN HOLDUP,' JOHN BOYD TESTIFIES

William Jordan, Boston & Maine baggagemaster, was today accused in Federal Court of being the instigator and "brains" of the $65,000 train robbery at Salisbury, last July.

The accusation was made by John Boyd, one of the men on trial, and the attorneys for Boyd, John Andrews and Michael Andrews, the three men now on trial charged with the robbery.

Boyd, the first defense witness, testifying in his own behalf, said he and the baggagemaster planned the robbery while Boyd was a passenger on his train. As his share of the loot, Boyd said $40,000 was buried along the Newburyport Turnpike for Jordan within an hour after Boyd and his companions robbed the train.

Mary Andrews Kondratuk, pretty sweetheart of John Boyd, who is charged by the government with being the ringleader of the $65,000 Salisbury train robbery, was revealed in Federal Court today as a girl with many admirers.

While the blonde beauty who left her husband in Chelsea to flee with Boyd to Texas has not taken the stand herself, in the train robbery case, she assumed one of the principal roles today in the examination of another of her admirers, Walter Kowalski of Nashua, N. H.

Kowalski testified for the government against the three men charged with the train robbery—John Boyd, John Andrews, father of Mary Kondratuk and her brother, Michael.

EMILY FULLER DENIES SHE WAS HARRIS' WIFE

Breaking her silence today in a statement by long-distance telephone to the Boston Evening American, Miss Emily Fuller, pretty Somerville girl, explained that a mutual regard existing between herself, her mother and the late Charles S. Eager to face boldly any charge made by contestants of Harris' will, Miss Fuller, who was his ticket seller at the Bijou Theatre and has been in Mt. Vernon, N. Y., seeking a chance to become an actress, left for Boston on an afternoon train.

"I deny positively that I was married to Mr. Harris," she said. "Mr. Harris was a dear, dear man and a

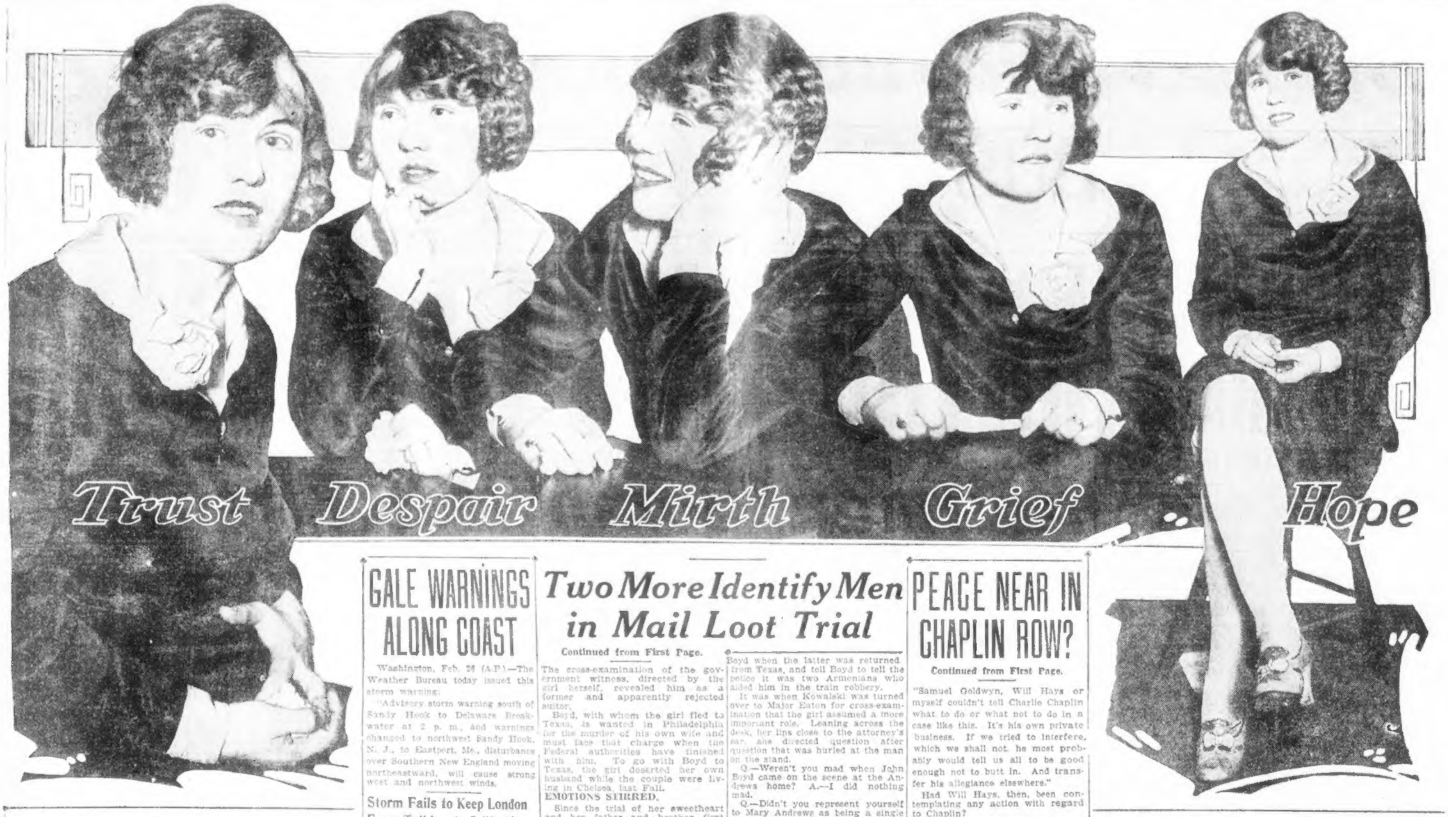
Emotions Sway Mary Kondratuk ~ At Train Robbery Trial ~ As Sweetheart Is Mentioned



GALE WARNINGS ALONG COAST

Washington, Feb. 26 (A.P.)—The Weather Bureau today issued this storm warning:

"Advisory storm warning south of Sandy Hook to Delaware Breakwater at 2 p. m., and warnings changed to northwest Sandy Hook, N. J., to Eastport, Me., disturbance over Southern New England moving northeastward, will cause strong west and northwest winds.

Storm Fails to Keep London From Talking to California

New York, Feb. 26 (A.P.)—The first great obstacle on land that has seriously interfered with the trans-Atlantic radio telephone service was overcome today with the successful opening of a new land-wire route from Houlton, Me., to New York, to replace a leg of the route disrupted for several hours in the blizzard in Maine, officials of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company announced.

Conversations scheduled between London and San Francisco under today's extension of the service to the Pacific were carried on, however, only a little more than two hours behind schedule, it was said.

Two More Identify Men in Mail Loot Trial

The cross-examination of the government witness, directed by the girl herself, revealed him as a former and apparently rejected suitor.

Boyd, with whom the girl fled to Texas, is wanted in Philadelphia for the murder of his own wife and must face that charge when the Federal authorities have finished with him. To go with Boyd to Texas, the girl deserted her own husband while the couple were living in Chelsea, last Fall.

EMOTIONS STIRRED.

Since the trial of her sweetheart and her father and brother first started, the girl has been constantly in the courtroom. Her emotions have been constantly stirred, and frequently when evidence she believed damaging to her sweetheart was offered, she sobbed brokenly.

Today, when Kowalski was called to the stand to testify for the government, the girl left her seat in the rear of the courtroom and took a chair by the side of the chief of the defense counsel, Major Ivory Eaton of Nashua.

She followed every word of Kowalski's testimony, in which he told of having conversations with the Andrews, father and son, both in the Nashua Jail and in the East Cambridge Jail. Kowalski testified that the elder Andrews told him to see Boyd when the latter was returned from Texas, and tell Boyd to tell the police it was two Armenians who aided him in the train robbery.

It was when Kowalski was turned over to Major Eaton for cross-examination that the girl assumed a more important role. Leaning across the desk, her lips close to the attorney's ear, she directed question after question that was hurled at the man on the stand.

Q.—Weren't you mad when John Boyd came on the scene at the Andrews home? A.—I did nothing mad.

Q.—Didn't you represent yourself to Mary Andrews as being a single man? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't you complain to John Andrews, her father, about Boyd cutting you out in her affections? A.—Well, I didn't like him.

Q.—After Boyd started to come there didn't you propose selling your house and going away with Mary? A.—No.

Q.—Aren't you a stool pigeon for the Nashua police because Mary threw you down? A.—Well, I did something for the police.

Q.—You were mad at John Andrews and Mary and did all in your power to help the police? A.—Well, I did help out the police and post-office inspectors.

Major Eaton then asked the girl to stand up. With a defiant toss of PEACE NEAR IN CHAPLIN ROW?

"Samuel Goldwyn, Will Hays or myself couldn't tell Charlie Chaplin what to do or what not to do in a case like this. It's his own private business. If we tried to interfere, which we shall not, he most probably would tell us all to be good enough not to butt in. And transfer his allegiance elsewhere."

Had Will Hays, then, been contemplating any action with regard to Chaplin?

COULD GIVE ADVICE.

"To my knowledge, he has not," Schenck replied. "He might give advice, but he can go no further than that."

Will Hays' action in the Fatty Arbuckle case, said Schenck, had been misconstrued.

"Mr. Hays did not oust Arbuckle from the films," Schenck explained. "He merely ordered that pictures filmed before that date could not be released."

Schenck discounted the report that he and Samuel Goldwyn had been commissioned to intercede in the Chaplin marital tangle, the purpose being to eliminate the unpleasantness that court proceedings might introduce.

of them died later at Newport Hospital.

The barge, the Luther Hooper, was bound from Baltimore to Providence with 3,500 tons of soft coal. Second in a string of three barges towed by a tug, it sank quickly when its seams opened in the wind-swept sea.

The five seamen, after a terrible experience in the water, were taken aboard by the crew of the tug A. O. Walker, which rushed them to Newport. As the two most badly battered by the waves died, the others lay unconscious in adjoining hospital cots.

The men at the hospital are Captain John Brecharis of the barge, William Rice and Henry Delorey.

A survivor said the men who died had joined the ship at Providence. One was Isaac Carkhan of Le Have, N. S., he believed. He said he did not know the name of the other man.

Trans-Atlantic telephone service was restored by telephone company officials by a hook-up by way of White River Junction, Littleton, N. H., Berlin, N. H., Lewiston, Me., to Houlton, Me.

Of 9,000 pole circuits in New England, 459 were out of commission. Ninety-three lines out of Boston were in trouble, 108 out of Portland, 31 out of Portsmouth and 57 out of Worcester. The troubles were chiefly in country places, several hundred poles being dragged down by sleet-covered wires.

Streams and rivers were swollen to dangerous heights by rain and melting snow. Railroad trains were delayed by wire wreckage, trolley service was at a standstill in many localities because of rails crusted with ice, and trolley poles down, and electric light service failed in several cities and towns.

While Boston was being swept by wind and rain, other portions of the State were being lashed by the worst sleet storm in years, followed in some sections by heavy snowfall.

Trees were toppled down by the wind, while sleet, besides short-circuiting and grounding the wires in many places, clung to the wires until their weight dragged down the supporting poles.

WASHOUTS THREATENED

Railroads reported taking steps to prevent threatening wash-outs and the destruction of bridges over flooded streams and rivers. The telephone company reported serious damage in all sections, while the Postal Telegraph Company and Western Union were forced to rush out large crews of emergency workers to repair disrupted lines.

Short-circuiting of wires on the Portland, Southern and Fitchburg divisions of the Boston & Maine railroad delayed trains on these lines. The wires, together with many poles, were down over long stretches in the outlying sections of the State.

Two large steamers, the Ozama and Zylayl, were among vessels in the harbor that were dragged from their anchorages. Harbor police were kept busy through the night guiding small craft to safe moorings.

The Ozama and Zylayl drifted so far from their anchorages, off Bird Island, that the crews were called from their quarters to get up steam and take the vessels out of the channels toward which they were drifting, threatening to cause serious collisions with other steamers.

Trees, wires and telephone poles were laid low by the storm and gale from Fitchburg to Greenfield, where a heavy snow fell for hours then changed to sleet and rain.

Fifteen poles along the Boston & Maine line in the short stretch between Concord, N. H., and Hooksett were down and emergency crews were despatched to repair damage there and in other places all along the three main divisions.

Around Fitchburg, where electric light and power service was cut off for hours, the storm was said to be the worst since the ice-storm of 1921. Many acres of land were inundated in New Hampshire and Maine by streams and rivers that overflowed their banks.

POSTAL WIRES DOWN.

The Postal Telegraph Company wires were down north of Nashua, N. H., but quick work by linemen restored service through to Manchester. Beyond that point there was other serious trouble and wires down along the coast forced the re-routing of messages to Maine through Manchester.

Several Maine cities and towns were cut off from all communication, these including Brunswick and small communities in that vicinity.

Four Western Union circuits were out of commission along the Boston & Maine Railroad right of way in New Hampshire and Vermont, one of these being between Concord and Manchester, N. H., a heavy traffic line.

More than six inches of sleet and snow piled on the ground in the vicinity of Ayer, Fitchburg and Gardner.

Storm warnings were posted by the government from Sandy Hook to Eastport, Me., because of continuing strong winds along the coast, but the weather bureau predicted fair weather for Boston and vicinity for tonight and Sunday. The mercury is due to drop slightly, with a minimum temperature of about 25 degrees during the next 36 hours.

North Adams Paralyzed by 10-Inch Snowfall

North Adams, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—High winds and a ten-inch snowfall broke down telephone, telegraph and trolley wires, putting four hundred telephone lines out of commission and delaying trolley schedules.

The Berkshire Street Railway Company operated all lines except that to Bennington, Vt., which was operated for only six of the usual 18 miles.

Drifting snow made the Mohawk Trail impassable by filling cuts. Telephone toll service was almost at a standstill, only a few lines being available.

FIREMEN HIT BY HULTMAN 'BOMBSHELL'

the commissioner declared, is in part responsible for Boston having the heaviest fire loss of any city of its size in the country.

Newer and younger men of the fire department, now in the outlying stations, are to be transferred to stations in the heart of the city, Mr. Hultman said, while the veterans who have spent many years in their present places in downtown fire houses, will be shifted to the Hinterland. All of which will make for better discipline and a more efficient fire-fighting machine, he said.

FOR GENERAL TRANSFER.

The commissioner denied that any general shake-up would be ordered before he sails from New York on Monday.

"There will be no general transfer at least until I get back," said Mr. Hultman. "I don't do business that way. When there is a shake-up I'll be around when the pieces fall."

The commissioner's manner indicated, however, that some interesting times for the members of the fire department are just ahead.

"The trouble is that there has been no discipline in the fire department for ten years," the commissioner continued. "Many of the men think they have a vested right in the buildings in which they are working."

Asked as to just what the new policy would be, Commissioner Hultman offered a copy of a letter he had just sent to a Back Bay friend. This friend had written Mr. Hultman, pleading that a certain member of the fire department be not transferred from his present station which he had occupied for years.

LETTER TO FRIEND.

Quoting from Mr. Hultman's reply to the request:

"It will be my policy to transfer the older privates, particularly, and also the officers to a considerable extent, to the outlying companies, to improve the efficiency of those companies, as of course, the inhabitants of the section covered by these companies are entitled to as good protection as that given other sections of the city.

"This will also give an opporunity of bringing he younger men down town where service is very much more actve and strenuous and older men are in great peril of serious injury.

"I cannot help but think that the fact that Boston has had the highest fire loss of any city of its size in the United States has been brought about in part by the spirit whch has grown up among some of the men, due to their being left in one house too long. They feel they have a vested right, both to their job and in the house in which they are stationed, irrespective of their efficiency."

WOULD ASK GIFTS BY WEALTHY

Massachusetts will embark on a new era of humanitarian treatment of its aged and needy citizens if a bill now under favorable consideration by the legislative Committee on Pensions is enacted into law.

This committee is expected to report within a short period in favor of the establishment of a bequest fund to which gifts from wealthy citizens will be solicited.

A bill for such a bequest fund is before the committee under which women at the age of 60 and men at 65 would be eligible for pensions. It was filed by Wendell P. Thore, father of the non-contributory pension idea in this State.

The same idea was suggested by Governor Cox in his 1923 inaugural message. The former governor recommended then that to start the fund the State appropriate $100,000. He would have had it handled by a commission of five members to hold office for ten years. Thore would give the handling to the State treasurer.

"Our pride as citizens has been stirred frequently by enormous gifts for public purposes, such as parks, playgrounds, boulevards and the beautifying of cities," Governor Cox said in his message.

"If men are willing to leave vast sums of money for such worthy purposes, there must be those who would welcome the opportunity for leaving funds, assured of their proper administration, to be devoted to making more comfortable and happy those in old age who have tried with honest purpose and have failed."

SENATE VOTES DOWN BOULDER DAM CLOTURE

Washington, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Twice within a half hour the Senate refused today to ease the closing days of its session by invoking its drastic cloture rule, designed to break up filibusters.

Overwhelmingly it defeated an effort to put the rule into force to compel action on the Boulder Canyon dam bill, which recently evoked a filibuster that kept the Senate in session for thirty hours without a break. A two-thirds majority would be required, but only 32 senators voted for cloture while 59 opposed it.

A second vote was on applying the rule to a bill to give emergency World War army officers the same disability retirement privileges as regulars. This time 51 voted for cloture, with 36 against, only three less than the required two-thirds.

Two cloture petitions remain pending. One would apply the debate limitation to the administration's prohibition reorganization bill and the other to the $125,000,000 public buildings bill.

CAPTAIN SAILS SHIP TO PORT AND DROPS

Driving his vessel to port in the early morning hours through murk and rain, Captain P. E. Respess, twenty-eight-year-old skipper of the steam collier Bylayl, dropped anchor today off Bird Island flats and collapsed in his cabin, victim of an acute stomach ailment.

The tug Neponset of the Dana fleet rushed to the side of the vessel starting a trip that ended at the Phillips House, Massachusetts General Hospital, for a quick operation that probably saved his life.

Respess was stricken yesterday while piloting his craft from Norfolk but doggedly determined to make port. Officials of the Pocahontas Coal Company, local agents, reported the doctors were satisfied with the operation.

The Bylayl and the collier Ozama dragged anchor in the squall, coming together with a crash without serious damage.

George Washington ∾ A Hero Goes ∾ By W. E. Woodward

ARRANGED LETTERS
In the later years of his life, after his retirement from the Presidency, Washington spent much of his time in going over his correspondence and putting it in order. He realized that posterity would be deeply interested in it.

CAUGHT COLD
On December 12, 1799, Washington rode around his plantations on a tour of inspection, although the day was stormy. The next day he complained of a cold, which quickly developed into a severe case of quinsy.

UNAFRAID
As night was falling, on December 14, Washington said to his physician: "Doctor, I die hard, but I am not afraid to go" Then, considerate of others to the last, he motioned to his body servant, Christopher, and whispered: "Sit down."

THE END
He died at about ten o'clock that evening, aged 67 years. Mrs. Washington asked: "Is he gone?" and then said: "'Tis well. All is now over. I have no more trials to pass through. I shall soon follow him."

(THE END.)

Three Wedding Ceremonials of Importance Feature Day; Two Are Local; Third in Washington

WEDDING BELLS GAVE TODAY ITS PREDOMINATING motif. Society found itself concerned with three important alliances celebrated on February's last Saturday and naturally questioned if that always charming creature, the bride, is not turning away from the traditional June of hallowed association to bestow on February the romantic scent of orange blossoms and the shimmer of gleaming satin. Locally the fashionables first rustled into Arlington Street Church's high-backed pews to hear Miss Jane Peters exchange the solemn vows of matrimony with Samuel Eliot Guild, and then motored to Brookline's First Parish while Miss Anita Bowditch and Roger Preston plighted their troth. Away in Washington, it was a young Boston man, John Caswell, Jr., who took for his future helpmate Mrs. Zachary Lansdowne at a ceremonial, sans pomp and circumstance, but immensely important none the less.

SUPREMELY FORTUNATE THE BRIDE who possesses rare and exquisite laces wherewith to array herself on the important day. Sentiment there was and tradition, and fairy beauty in the creme point applique robe and train that Miss Peters wore. There was a satin train and her flowers are white orchids, fragile and exotic, and white freesias. Of feminine attendants there were none—a not unwise variation of the usual long processional with which so many brides surround themselves. Decoratively it was a yellow and green wedding. Yellow acacias against King ferns that spread wide green fronds high against the fine old altar was most effective and at the Bay State road home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Yorke Peters, Spring flowers massed carelessly, without studied arrangements, made fragrant background.

THE "SOMETHING OLD AND SOMETHING NEW" in the lovely creation worn by today's other important bride, Miss Anita Bowditch, found its expression in gleaming straight-line satin gown that had at the hem a wide banding of antique duchesse lace belonging to the bride's mother's wedding finery. Some lovely pieces of Venetian lace the bride bought in Italy last Summer were fashioned into the deep berthalike collar and pointed cuffs on the finger-tip length sleeves. Essentially bridelike and conventional were the frothy tulle veil banded with orange blossoms and the slender length of train.

CARNIVAL RED CHIFFON for the matron of honor's frock, and gentian blue chiffon for the maids lent to the processional the novelty of brilliant coloring. Their hats, each of inky black velvet, were picture affairs, with transparent brims, and they carried arm clusters of vari-colored blossoms. Mrs. James Randall Fraser was matron, and the bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Bowditch, Miss Carol Lord, Miss Marguerite Gareau and Miss Virginia Harris. After the church ceremonial, close friends and the families went on to Mrs. Frederic Bowditch's home for the reception. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn G. Preston of Lexington.

THE NEW MRS. JOHN CASWELL, JR., was pictorially perfect in a frock inspired by Gainsborough's velvet clad beauties. From the brim of her wide hat to the tips of her buckled shoes she was the lady of high degree stepped down from a gilded frame. Her gown of sapphire blue velvet had a ruff and flaring cuffs of ivory lace, and the picture hat and velvet shoes exactly matched the softly brilliant sapphire hue. Her sole ornament was a diamond pin, the bridegroom's gift to his bride.

MR. CASWELL'S ENTOURAGE BROUGHT TOGETHER within its circle young men from both Boston and New York. Lothrop M. Weld was best man, and George Allon Fuller was head usher. Mr. Weld really is a Bostonian, although now living in New York, and Mr. D. Fuller is a New Yorker. Henry Parsons King of Boston, W. Lloyd Byers and George B. Perry hail from Boston, and George E. Watson, Jr., and William Watson from New York. This formally turned out set had no church duties to perform, as the ceremonial was a quiet one, celebrated at the Washington home of the bride's uncle, Dr. William B. Mason. Honeymoon days are to be spent in foreign parts, and then the Caswells, Jr., will set up their home in one of the smart environments that Long Island furnishes.

WHETHER MILADY OF THE SUPPER DANCE SET wears a sophisticated French creation all glittering spangles, a girlish crepe without adornment or a robe de style—each and every costume must have as accompaniment elaborate earrings. Earrings, preferably of the enormously long pendants sort, are very much "the thing" at the moment. Mrs. Charles Boyden wore handsome gold drops with her gold sequined gown. Mrs. Arthur Richmond appeared in a blue satin pannlered frock with earrings of large pearls swinging on slender triple chains. Mrs. Henry Crocker Barr wore an orchid crepe cleverly beaded, and her eardrops were pearls and diamonds. Mrs. Lawrence Morgan matched her green velvet gown with jade earrings that formed enormous hoops swinging from dull gold studs.

WITH A SMART FROCK OF METAL CLOTH in black and dull gold, Mrs. Roger Griswold wore elaborate dull gold antique earrings and a necklace of the same ancient pattern. Her slippers were black satin, strapped in gold. Miss Helenka Adamowska's fluffy golden locks were bound with a diamond and platinum bandeau, and she wore swinging earrings of pearls set on slender chains. Her fringed gown was dull black, and so were her satin shoes. Mrs. Theodore Frothingham seems to have an endless store of lovely ornaments especially antique earrings in delicate filigree designs. Last night her smart little fringed frock of inky black set off admirably a single strand of pearls about her neck and handsome old-fashioned earrings that might have been heirlooms from her grandmother's wedding outfit.

THE SLENDERLY TALL AND BLACK-HAIRED YOUNG MATRON, Mrs. Thomas W. Storrow, wore a black and white ensemble, matching her moire gown of black and white with shining jet eardrops set with tiny pearls. Mrs. Ronald T. Lyman's orange velvet and tulle frock and Mrs. Lyman's diamond earstuds brightened the scene. Likewise Mrs. Manning Emory's graduated pearl pendant earrings contrasting so effectively with her smart black satin gown. Mrs. Hinkley Welch wore the favorite pearl pendants, and her gown was a Nile green crepe spangled with crystal nailheads.

MRS. CHARLES P. GREENOUGH'S PEARL AND DIAMOND EARRINGS accompanied very cleverly her smart fringed frock of ombre rose. Mrs. Alvin Sortwell's gold beaded black crepe and her antique gold earrings went well together. Also Mrs. Frederick Busk's turquoise satin so cleverly girdled, and her turquoise matrix earrings banded in gold. Mrs. Quincy Shaw, Jr., removed a rich quilted wrap of gold cloth to reveal an equally effective gown of gold cloth in geometric design. Ornamental gold buttons adorned her gold shoes, and her jewels were pearls in slender ropes and antique pearl and gold earrings.

MISS MARGERY RICHARDSON'S ROSE LEAF CHEEKS and fluffy hair and one of those quaint little frocks of which she is so fond combined to make her one of the prettiest younger set girls at the Seniors' party. Bands of moire in alternating Nile and forest green formed the gown, and there was a surplice arrangement of the pale green about the shoulders. Mrs. Charles Coolidge, Jr., wore a bertha frock of white satin and a coral silk shawl that exactly matched her coral eardrops and the coral ribbon bow with its long streamers that was caught at the front of her bodice.

NO MATTER WHAT THE WEATHER MAN DECREES—whether rain or sleet, mist or snow—ever is the Arena ice perfect and ever do the Skating Club members turn out en masse at afternoon sessions. Little Miss Mary Morison is a young skater who can do the twists and turns like a veteran. Also little Miss Audrey Butler, one of the tiny members. In fact, the whole set is cleverly expert. There is Miss Elizabeth Lloyd, Miss Madeleine Jonckheere and Miss Judith Marsland. Miss Edith Sigourney skates as well as she plays tennis, and that is a very great degree of excellence indeed.

NICARAGUAN ACTION OF BRITISH STIRS GOSSIP

Washington, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Senator Borah's proposal to have the Foreign Relations Committee authorized to visit Mexico and Nicaragua this Summer was squelched today by the committee itself.

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.

Washington, Feb. 26.—Dispatch of a British cruiser to Nicaraguan waters to protect British subjects is generally regarded here as a more serious reflection upon the Administration's Nicaraguan policy than any criticism yet offered in either House or Senate.

The London Government's decision appears to have taken the Washington Government completely by surprise. It has set the members of the diplomatic corps to discussing the possibility of Italy following suit. It has also stimulated gossip about Secretary Kellogg's retirement.

As usual the Committee on Foreign Relations is completely in the dark on the whole matter. Its chairman followed up his criticism of American policy with a blast against British policy. But he does not speak for his committee.

It is even denied by Republican members of the committee that as chairman, Senator Borah can command the support of a majority of the committee on this or any other question in foreign affairs that is really vital.

Senator Borah appears to put little reliance on the reports of American diplomatic and consular officials in Nicaragua. He is in correspondence with emigre Americans who are engaged in business there.

These he has quoted on several occasions as being displeased by the course the administration is pursuing. He seems to think that they are safe guides for the Washington government.

At the Navy Department you are told that the Department of State is wholly responsible for the instructions to Admiral Latimer, commanding the American naval force in Nicaraguan waters and the marines and bluejackets ashore.

He will still be the senior officer present after the arrival of the British cruiser Colombo, its commander being Captain A. M. Lecky, who is junior to Admiral Latimer.

ENDORSES R. I. MILL STRIKE

Providence, R. I., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The United Textile Workers of America emergency board today endorsed the strike of the workers in the Social plant of the Manville-Jenckes Company in Woonsocket and empowered International President John H. Powers to take any action they saw fit in bringing the affair to a successful conclusion.

The contention of the union in a statement today was that the notices posted last week by the Manville-Jenckes mill, to the effect that the plant would close after the present supply of yarn was exhausted, constituted notice of a lockout and intensified the action of the workers in walking out at once.

HOLD $500,000 RUM SHIP CREW

Philadelphia, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Charged with smuggling a $500,000 cargo of whiskey into this country, J. H. S. MacDonald, master of the British steamship Clackamas, and 33 members of his crew were held for court today by United States Commissioner Long.

Much of the hearing was taken up by a story of piracy, rum-running, mutiny and smuggling told by M. J. Long, wireless operator on the vessel. Long said he had turned informer because "they did not do the right thing."

He added that he had been held prisoner since the ship arrived here February 18 and that he had managed to escape and notify government officials, who arrested Captain MacDonald and his crew.

The captain was held in $5,000 bail, the mate and engineer in $3,000 each and the members of the crew in $1,000 each. Bond was furnished by all.

MORE FOODSTUFFS IN STORAGE THAN YEAR AGO

There were 23,510,565 pounds of foodstuffs in cold storage February 1, more than 3,000,000 pounds in excess of what was in storage a year ago, Hermann C. Lythgoe, director of the food and drug division of the State Department of Health reported today. The egg and butter holdings were below normal, beef and pork slightly above the five-year average, and lamb about normal. The poultry holdings, however, the director declared, were excessive, and with the exception of 1925, a record.

PUBLIC URGED TO AID FIGHT ON DRUGS

(By Universal Service)

New York, Feb. 26.—Sara Graham-Mulhall, author of a widely-read treatise on the narcotic question, in a radio talk broadcast yesterday in connection with national narcotic week, deplored the extent of the international drug traffic, as shown by the advisory committee's report submitted last June to the council of the League of Nations.

"The report pointed out that data at the disposal of the committee for keeping in touch with the traffic is insufficient," she said. "It also showed that the quantity of drugs manufactured is considerably in excess of medical and scientific requirements. The present situation appears to be serious.

"Every public-spirited citizen should do his individual part toward creating a public opinion which will demand the four next steps which the advisory committee on opium and other dangerous drugs says are urgently needed."

Miss Graham listed these four steps as follows:

1—The various countries should quickly ratify the agreements made in 1926 in order that all the machinery of control proposed by the 1924 world conference of 39 nations may be brought into operation.

2—All nations honestly interested in seeing drug addiction made impossible should require that their reports to the League of Nations on the traffic be prompt and complete.

3—The countries should pass laws making it illegal to insure or to pay insurance on consignments of drugs destined for illicit purposes.

4—All nations should recognize that prevention of traffic is a police job and should attack the traffic through the law enforcement departments of the countries and not through the round-about channel of diplomacy.

The alleged power to charm down insanity, or ferocity in beasts, is a power behind the eye.

MORE TEACHERS NEEDED, SAYS DEAN CHASE

By Associated Press.

More teachers rather than a restricted enrollment is the solution of Dean George H. Chase of the Harvard Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, to the problem of an expanding student body.

Reversing the recent trend of opinion in some of the larger universities, Dean Chase, in his annual report to President A. Lawrence Lowell, declared:

"In view of the present demand for teachers and research workers in many fields, due to the remarkable growth of colleges and universities and the expansion of business, it would be a pity to diminish the supply at the source."

Dr. Chase pointed out that while between 1873 and 1909 608 doctorates of philosophy and science were granted by the school, the number increased to 543 between 1916 and 1926.

After pointing out that holders of the degrees are representative of every State in the Union and Provinces of Canada, as well as a dozen countries of Europe and many other parts of the world, Chase said:

"Through such a wide distribution of its doctors, Harvard University exercises a powerful influence over methods of instruction and research, and the training of these men is surely one of the most important services performed by the university."

MARY WELD WILL MARRY SUMNER PINGREE MAR. 26

Miss Mary Weld, daughter of the late Dr. Charles G. Weld, who was one of New England's distinguished surgeons, will be married to Sumner Pingree of Ermita, Cuba, on Saturday, March 26, in Trinity Church, Copley square.

Pingree is the son of Mrs. John H. Randolph of Havana, Cuba. He is a member of the Racquet Club of Boston and well known in this city. Engagement of the couple was announced early in December.

HAPPY HOME CONTEST

scribes herself as "a contented wife and mother." It is apparent from her letter that she is striving earnestly to obey the Divine command to "Love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart and with thy whole soul, and thy neighbor as thyself."

The Editor of the Evening American is waiting for YOUR views on these lively and most important subjects:

"What Makes Home Happy?" What Makes Home Unhappy?"

Please do not write more than 300 words, and kindly write on only one side of the paper.

Ten Dollars for every letter printed, except on Saturday. For the letter printed on Saturday, FIFTY DOLLARS.

Address all communications to Home Editor, Boston Evening American, P. O. Box 110, Boston, Mass.

Another "Happy Homes" letter will be printed in Monday's Evening American.

Week's Best Letter on "Happy Homes":

> "And while, with care, our mother laid
> The work aside, her steps she stayed
> One moment, seeking to express
> Her grateful sense of happiness
> For food and shelter, warmth and health,
> And Love's contentment more than wealth."
> —Whittier's "Snow-Bound."

THE key of family happiness is Love's contentment.

Happiness is a peaceful state of mind. Those who think it can be obtained through material wealth alone are chasing rainbows.

The happiest families are those in which the children are considered to be true wealth. Their mothers are akin to Cornelia, the mother of the Gracchi, whose children were her jewels.

A disintegrating force in family life today is the mad scramble for empty luxuries. We see it all about us. Family happiness is being undermined by a feverish discontent.

SIMPLE PLEASURES BEST.

The beautiful Flower of Contentment requires the soil of simple desires and joys; gladness at our neighbor's welfare, and a hoping that in due time our hard work will receive its reward. Such a soil produces a sense of resignation, the feeling that there is a divine compensation and that, after all, the simple pleasures are the best.

And it needs the sunshine of godliness; of that simple faith which gives heartfelt thanks for the smallest favors bestowed by Providence, and prays that the same blessings may be bestowed upon others. "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of Heaven."

The petals of the Flower of Contentment are red, significant of this love of God and neighbor.

BANISH JEALOUSY.

It covets the rain of self-sacrifice. Mutual service, co-operation and unity of action are good for the family, just as they are good for society.

It demands the constant raking out of the weeds of jealousy and petty quarrelsomeness, in order that its growth may not be choked.

It requires, finally, the nourishing elements of sensible discipline and the most patient perseverance, hoed diligently about its stem in order that it may reach that maturity which we call Family Happiness.

SHANGHAI NOW ARMED CAMP

Hongkong, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The American destroyers Pruitt and Muggia left Hongkong today for Shanghai.

Shanghai, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Shanghai was an international armed camp today, with troops of Great Britain, France and Italy ready for action should the Chinese factional warfare be drawn too close to Shanghai's international settlement.

Offshore, riding at anchor, United States war craft, carrying 2,400 bluejackets, waited, ready to land the force only in event of danger to American lives and property in Shanghai.

Into this warlike atmosphere the Northern Chinese poured a stream of troop trains from Nanking, carrying soldiers under the command of General Chang Tsung Chang, War Lord of Shantung Province, rushing to the aid of the shattered forces of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang.

U. S. DRY FILES TAMPERED WITH, SAYS LA GUARDIA

Washington, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The charge that prohibition files have been tampered with to exclude a certain letter from Judge Frank Cooper of New York to R. Q. Merrick, an enforcement officer, was made in the House today by Representative LaGuardia, Republican, New York.

The letter LaGuardia said, would definitely implicate Judge Cooper in a conspiracy to trap liquor law violators. The House Judiciary Committee is hearing charges by LaGuardia who seeks the judge's impeachment.

DISMISSES $50,000 SUIT AGAINST M'ADOO'S SISTER

New York, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The $50,000 alienation suit brought by Mrs. Thelma Helms Foster, a daughter of Hermann Helms, chess expert, against Mrs. Nona McAdoo Foster, a sister of William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury and son-in-law of President Wilson, was dismissed today by Supreme Court Justice Bijur for lack of prosecution. Suit was begun in May, 1922.

BAR KLAN FROM NO. CAROLINA

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 26 (I.N.S.).—The Ku Klux Klan and other secret organizations were virtually outlawed in North Carolina today when the House unanimously passed the Johnson "unmasking" bill.

The House approved the bill almost as speedily as the Senate did earlier.

The bill will have to go to conference because of two amendments offered in the House by Representative Rideote of Rowan, which would exclude the Moose and labor organizations from the bill.

The bill prohibits the organization or operation of secret orders in North Carolina, and makes membership in such an organization a felony punishable by imprisonment.

BOY IDENTIFIED AS BACK BAY "DOORWAY" THUG

John J. Kenney, eighteen-year-old former English High School student, of Hampshire street, Roxbury was today identified by three victims of the long-sought Back Bay "doorway thug" as the man who robbed them at gun-point in their doorways. Other victims are to confront Kenney today.

John J. Kenney

With Kenney's capture police believe, the reign of terror that has engulfed the Back Bay district for several weeks, has been dispelled. Several days ago the "polite bandit," Harry Weitz of Cambridge, was caught.

MORRIS MUSCLE SHOALS PLAN WINS APPROVAL

Washington, Feb. 26 (I.N.S.).—The Morris resolution, providing for government operation of Muscle Shoals for ten years, and authorizing $13,000,000 for putting the plants in shape, was approved today by the Senate Agriculture Committee.

RUSSIANS DEFY ENGLAND

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER,
International News Correspondent.

Moscow, Feb. 26.—Russia today seethed with indignation at the "haughty" tone of the British note of protest warning the Soviet authorities to discontinue fomenting anti-British agitation in China.

Hundreds of thousands of persons attended protest mass meetings at Moscow, Leningrad, Kharkov, Nijni Novgorod and Kiev.

The populations interpreted the British communication as a threat of war, and responded with resolutions asserting Soviet Russia's preparedness for all eventualities.

The Red army garrisons at Kharkov and Moscow passed a resolution declaring:

"Let the English bourgeois know that the Red army is ready at any time to repel an attack. We instruct our government to repudiate in the sharpest terms the haughty English rulers. We have been and will be on the side of the workers of China. Lord Curzon did not scare us; neither shall Austen Chamberlin."

Mayor Lowe's Wife Dead

Fitchburg, Feb. 26.—Mrs. Anna K. Lowe, wife of Mayor Joseph A. Lowe of this city, died today at her home, No. 3 Atlantic avenue. She had been ill for a long period. Before her marriage to Mayor Lowe thirteen years ago, she was Miss Anna Kimball of Wakefield.

NAB 'BROKERS' AT CITY HALL

While hundreds looked on police today rounded up twenty-six men in the crowd of "curbstone brokers" that line the sidewalks in the vicinity of City Hall Annex every Saturday, selling everything from toothpicks to castles in the air.

They will be arraigned in court Monday morning, charged with obstructing the free passage of the public in and around Court street.

ENGLAND WANTS INDIAN NAVY

London, Feb. 26 (I.N.S.).—Proposals for a new arm of the British navy were officially announced today.

The British government will ask Parliament to enact a law creating the royal Indian navy, in which Indians trained as naval officers and seamen, will serve. This navy would be available for the use of the British Admiralty when a state of emergency is declared.

The government, it is stated, has received some dominion replies on President Coolidge's disarmament proposals, but its reply will be held up until all dominions reply.

NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

DARWIN P. KINGSLEY - - President

A Mutual Organization—Founded in 1845 Incorporated under the Laws of New York

346 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, N. Y.

Eighty-second Annual Statement

To the Policy-holders:

You, the members of the New York Life Insurance Company, owned 2,220,784 policies at the close of business on December 31, 1926.

You are a vast community of people representing every honest walk in life—farmers, bankers, tradesmen, merchants, laborers, manufacturers, employers and employees, and professional men and women—young and old—all banded together in a common enterprise for the common good.

If you and your families could be brought together, you would populate one of the largest cities in the world. What a city it would be, with every family striving to safeguard its own future through a single co-operative institution for insurance and savings!

A Prosperous Year

In 1926, this Company which you own, wrote another chapter of progress:

New insurance over 900 Million Dollars.

Total insurance in force over 5¾ Billion Dollars.

Paid to members and beneficiaries over 133 Million Dollars, including over 53 Millions in Dividends

You, the policy-holders, have accumulated assets of more than 1¼ Billion Dollars. This money plus your future deposits and compound interest will eventually provide for payment of the Company's obligations to you and your beneficiaries.

We believe we are one of the companies Hon. Charles Evans Hughes had in mind when he recently said:

"I like to think of the spirit of life insurance, for it is the spirit of achievement."

Cash Value of Life

Fire insurance and life insurance protect values. The value of a worker's life is the cash worth of his future net earnings, usually far greater than the value of his property. The following points may help you to estimate the monetary value of your life.

The United States Government fixed $10,000 as the insurable life-value of American soldiers and sailors in the Great War, mostly young unmarried men who had been earning small incomes or none at all.

Recently, according to the New York Times, the American Statistical Association declared that the money value of the average American life (including children and adults who earn no income) is $17,500! As an income-earner, the value of your life is much greater.

Consider the capital required to produce income from interest. At 5% it takes $24,000 to yield $1,200 a year—$100 a month.

Nylic Is Your Investing Agent

The fund of more than 1¼ Billion Dollars is invested in accordance with the strict requirements of the laws of the State of New York; and it plays a substantial part in the development of the nation's farms, homes, railroads and public works.

As policy-holders, you practise thrift. You invest soundly and safely. Your money will be available to you and your dependents, impressed with emergency-power, at a time when it will be needed most.

That is what Mr. Hughes meant when he said, in the address to which I have just referred, that a life insurance policy was the best guardian of the purse that had ever been discovered.

Small Average Policy

Your total insurance is impressive; but if you divide it by 2,220,784, the number of policies, you will find that the size of the average policy is only $2,590.

Of course, some members have more than one policy; and many of you are also insured in other companies. But the great majority are UNDER-INSURED, as you will see.

How Much Insurance is Needed?

The answers to the following questions will enable you to measure your insurance needs: What is the minimum income you will require in your old age, or if you become totally and permanently disabled; and what is the smallest annual income your family could manage on if you were taken away?

Is it $500 a year, or $1,000, $2,000, $5,000, $10,000, or more?

How much will it require to settle your estate—to pay your debts, mortgages, and taxes, including the federal and state inheritance taxes?

How much cash will be needed at your death, or the death of your partner or an official of your company, to stabilize credit or to enable surviving partners or stockholders to acquire the deceased associate's interest in the business and carry on?

Your Program

You probably have a program, because you are insured; but how does your program stand today? How far short is it of the safety mark or the mark you are aiming at? May I suggest that you figure it out for yourself, or call in one of our Agents to help you work out a plan suited to your needs, so that you may feel secure as to your own and your family's future.

TWO IDENTIFY MEN IN MAIL LOOT TRIAL

her head, the girl rose and stood facing the witness.

Q.—Didn't you ask that girl to marry you? asked Attorney Eaton.

Kowalski hesitated and was palpably nervous. It was some little time before he finally muttered the single word "No."

Another witness, Mrs. Mary Meserve of Salisbury, identified William Hovanesian, driver of the car in which the robbers escaped, as having been at the scene of the crime.

Witnesses already had testified that Boyd and the younger Andrews were the robbers who boarded the Amesbury train at Newburyport and, after holding up the baggagemaster and a trainman, leaped from the train with the $63,000 payroll pouch, just as the train was passing Bartlett's Crossing.

DRIVER OF CAR.

William Hovanesian, driver of the robber car, who has turned State's evidence, also had testified that he and the elder Andrews lay in wait with the automobile near the crossing, the automobile concealed in the brush and that after the robbers leaped from the train, all three fled to Nashua.

Today Mrs. Meserve offered testimony to corroborate that of the driver of the robber machine. She testified that on the morning of the robbery she left her home, intending to take a trolley car to Amesbury. She walked down Cushing street to the railroad.

Q.—Did you see anyone there? A.—Yes. As I was walking near the tracks I saw a man standing near the bushes along the railroad.

Q.—Do you see that man in court? A.—Yes.

At the request of the Assistant United State District Attorney, the witness stepped from the stand and pointed out William Hovanesian as the man.

Q.—What was he doing? A.—Just standing there.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I turned around and walked back.

SEEN AT CROSSING.

Mrs. Meserve said she could not see where the brush at the side of the roadway had been disturbed and that only once before had she ever seen anyone at the crossing.

Omer A. Olson, interior decorator of Nahant, definitely placed John Andrews at Bartlett's Crossing at the time of the robbery. Olson told of leaving his home in Nahant, the morning of the robbery, going to Newburyport and then boarding the train for Amesbury and from which the money was stolen.

Q.—Where did you sit. A.—In the first cross seat in the combination smoker and baggage car. (It was in this car the actual robbery occurred).

Q.—What were you doing between Salisbury and Amesbury? A.—Looking out the window.

Q.—Did the train slow down as it neared the crossing? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Have you heard it testified that the train was going between 25 and 28 miles an hour. Is that correct? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Did you ever see this man (John Andrews) before? A.—No.

Q.—All you had was a glimpse of him as the train went by? A.—Yes.

Q.—Were there any trees along the railroad at this point? A.—I don't remember.

70 ENTRIES IN SIGHT FOR SHEPARD STORES HIKE

Seventy entries have been received for the Shepard Stores Boston-to-Providence and Providence-to-Boston hike March 5, according to announcement today by the stores management. Ninety entries are expected before the time limit for entries expires on March 3. George V. Brown of the B. A. A. and the Boston Arena has been obtained as referee.

As the hike will be "go as you please," meaning the contestants may walk or run as they choose, John Novak, manager of the Shepard Boston restaurant, expects that the winner may set a new record of seven hours or less for the 44 miles.

Start will be made simultaneously from Boston and from Providence. The finish here will be at Boston Common, in front of the Shepard Stores. The present record for amateurs is claimed by Novak, who set a time of 10 hours 28 minutes.

FISHERMEN RESCUED OFF BLOCK ISLAND

Fall River, Mass., Feb. 27 (A.P.)—A radio message today from Captain Smith of the oil tanker Swift Eagle, outward bound from this port, to Captain Fred A. Gower, port captain of the Mallory lines here, reveals the rescue of two fishermen off Block Island.

His message reads: "Picked up Fishermen Slaney and Ledwell adrift in dory fifty miles south southeast of Block Island, from schooner William Morress of Noank, N. Y."

IRVING BERLIN'S BRIDE LOSES $18,500 WATCH

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 26 (I.N.S.)—Mrs. Irving Berlin, daughter of Clarence W. Mackay, millionaire, whose opposition to her marriage to the song writer caused widespread interest, has lost a diamond watch, said to have a value of $18,500. It was a bethrothal gift. Mrs. Berlin said today that she might have lost the watch from her wrist while attending a concert here last night.

LEOPOLD AND ASTRID EXPECTING AN HEIR

Brussels, Feb. 26 (I.N.S.)—Prince Leopold and Princess Astrid anticipate the arrival of an heir in late September, it was whispered here today.

Crown Prince Leopold, heir to the Belgian throne, and Princess Astrid of Sweden have been living quietly in a chateau near Brussels since their wedding in the early Winter.

INSULL DEFIES COMMITTEE

Washington, Feb. 26 (A.P.)—Samuel Insull, Chicago utilities operator, his attorney, Daniel J. Schuyler and Thomas W. Cunningham, of Philadelphia, will be cited to the Senate next week for contempt by the Senate campaign funds committee.

Insull refused today to answer any questions as to $65,000 he contributed to the Cook county campaign in the Illinois primary last Spring.

He stated that all of $172,925 contributed by him to "influence the nomination of persons for United States Senator" was borrowed from the Commonwealth Edison Company, one of those under the control of the Commerce Commission of which Frank L. Smith, now Senator-elect, was chairman.

The utilities operator said he put this sum back to the company, and exhibited a check for $150,000 payable to the company, and dated June 29, 1926, two and a half months after the primary and after the Reed committee had announced it would investigate.

Wesleyan Endowment

Middletown, Conn., Feb. 26 (A.P.)—Endowment of $1,600,000 for Wesleyan University, which was the goal sought last year, has been accomplished, the Wesleyan Alumnus says, the $400,000 offered by the General Education Board being now available because the university raised the requisite $1,200,000 by Dec. 31.

OUT OF THE FOG AND OVER THE SIDE SHE GOES

It's an ill fog whose gray blot does no good.

The dense blanket that settled over the harbor the last two days enabled Miss Bertha Krouse of Dorchester to be en route to Germany today by a turn of events surrounding the sailing of the Hamburg American liner Westphalia from Commonwealth Pier.

The liner had pulled away from the dock when Chief Pilot Frye with Captain Robert Nise on the bridge, found the murk so dense that range lights could not be seen. They decided to put back.

In the meantime frantic efforts to find Miss Krouse, scheduled with the sailing, were renewed. Her much worried brother-in-law, spurred on by new delays in sailing, made a record-breaking trip by taxi to Uphams Corner, returning with the missing passenger.

Longshoremen had been dismissed when the liner left the dock but a "crew" of office help led by Daniel J. Hoskins, local agent, handled the heavy hawsers, throwing spring and breast lines like veterans. They all were college athletes.

Just as the fog lifted and the vessel again started to swing into the stream, Miss Krouse arrived.

From the moving vessel a boatswain's chair was swung out, returning with the fair cargo intact, as the college-bred "longshoremen" and a much relieved brother-in-law called it a night.

QUINCY WOMAN MAKES $22,500 PUBLIC BEQUESTS

Bequests of $22,500 to hospitals and other institutions, and $12,000 to relatives and friends, are contained in the will of Mrs. Lucy M. Wilson of Quincy, which was filed in Norfolk Probate court today. The rest and residue of her estate is left to her brother, Frank Gardner Smith of Brookline.

The Quincy City Hospital is left $5,000; Eventide Home, Quincy, $5,000; Boston Floating Hospital, $5,000; New England Home for Crippled Children, $5,000; King's Daughters and Sons Home, Pondville, $1,000; Charitable Circle of King's Daughters, Quincy, $500 and $500, each to the Women's Alliance and the Fragment Society of the First Parish Unitarian Church of Quincy.

CHURCH PORTER ADMITS $10,000 'POOR BOX' THEFTS

New York, Feb. 26 (A.P.)—Visions of living in luxury in Italy on the proceeds of thefts from poor boxes in the Paulist Fathers' Church faded today for Quintin Prosperi, church porter, when he landed in a police net. Police said he admitted stealing more than $10,000 from the boxes during the last 14 months, explaining he sent the money to a bank in Italy and intended to return there. He told the police he had keys made to open the boxes.

Hooded Men Beat Editor

Soperton, Ga., Feb. 26 (A.P.)—H. M. Flanders, editor of the Soperton News, was seized by three hooded men while en route from Swainsboro to Soperton and beaten into insensibility. An editorial in his newspaper had attacked bootleggers.

GRAFT PROBE BY THE FIN. COM.

They have come like a bolt from a clear sky, and I have not had time to decide upon what course to take," he declared.

Chairman Carr of the Finance Commission said complaints have been registered with the commission regarding the methods used by D. M. Biggs Company in removal of refuse in Dorchester.

"We have been so busy investigating the present city budget that the Biggs matter has been laid aside," he said.

"The charges brought by Councillor McGrath will be investigated at the earliest possible opportunity. We investigate such charges regardless of whom they hit."

Chairman Carr called attention to the report on the refuse contracts which he sent to Mayor Nichols Dec. 21, 1926. Excerpts of the report which was made in the form of a letter follow:

Contracts awarded for collection of refuse for 1927 in five districts, Dorchester, Brighton, Hyde Park, West Roxbury and East Boston, were not awarded to the lowest bidder. Excuses for passing over the lowest bidders are "annual" excuses.

Citing the removal of refuse in the Dorchester district, the letter read: "In Dorchester Joseph P. McCabe was refused the contract, though he was the lowest bidder. The contract was given to D. M. Biggs & Company, the second lowest bidder.

Further disclosures of alleged ash and garbage contract irregularities are looked for at the Monday meeting of the City Council when Councillor George Gilbody, who several weeks ago charged Contractor Biggs was paying his men less than the regular city wage, will submit additional findings of his investigation into complaints made by city laborers.

28,000 Motorists of State Delay to Save on Insurance

Massachusetts 'pioneer compulsory automobile insurance law is keeping thousands of dollars from the State's coffers, more than 28,000 motorists who had registered their machines this time last year having failed to take out a 1927 license and its attendant insurance policy.

The registration of other vehicles, including trucks, taxicabs, etc., shows a proportionate falling off.

State officials believe that thousands of autoists are waiting until April 1, before taking out their registrations, that they may save a part of the heavy insurance policy fees that the new law demands.

Plan Insurance Merger

Springfield, Feb. 26 (A.P.)—Officials of the Springfield Fire and Marine Insurance Company today announced negotiations are on for purchase of the Michigan Fire and Marine Insurance Co. of Detroit. The Michigan company has capital stock of $4000,000, the same surplus and assets of $2,000,000.

MOTHER DENIES DAUGHTER WED

very dear friend. That is all, and that is why he remembered me in his will.

"I never claimed to be his wife and he never introduced me as his wife. That is preposterous. It is terrible that such things are said about me.

"As far as I ever knew, Mr. Harris was married but once, his wife being the actress who was divorced from him many years ago and who died several years ago. I don't know anything about any women in New York who claimed to be his widows and want to share in the estate.

"I am returning to Boston by the first train. Mr. Harris was just my friend and my mother's friend for years, and that is all there is to it."

HIS ROOM IS LOCKED.

Her mother, Mrs. Mary Fuller of Willow avenue, Somerville, who is matron at the Bijou Theatre, also denied that her daughter was married to Harris.

"My daughter is taking a train at midnight tomorrow," the girl's mother said today. "She has been working in New York, but I received a telegram from her this morning saying she will be home."

Several relatives of Harris and four women who claim they were his wife, plan to contest the will which disposes of an estate rated at between $25,000 and $40,000.

The will under which she is given the property was made in 1919, when Miss Fuller was at the Bijou Theatre. The fact that his own brother did not know of its existence has given rise to the speculation that a later will might have been made during the last seven years.

Realizing the conflicting interests in the case of the family with whom Mr. Harris made his home for the past 10 years in Watertown, have locked up his room at their house and vow that his effects shall not be disturbed until someone with authority vested in him by the court makes his appearance.

WILL APPRAISE ESTATE.

On Jan. 19, Mr. Harris, then 66 years old, died at the Eliot Hospital following a brief illness. His brother made arrangements for the funeral services which were conducted two days later at a Back Bay mortuary and among the numerous mourners was Miss Fuller, a diminutive blonde who wept copiously as the services were read.

The following day, Jan. 22, George Harris, the brother, filed a petition in the Middlesex Court, through his counsel, Samuel O. Reinstein, setting forth that the theatrical man had died without leaving a will and asking to be appointed administrator of the estate.

This was followed a short time later by the filing of the will in Suffolk county, which, because Harris was a resident of Watertown when he died, was transferred to the Middlesex probate Court.

Judge J. Albert Brackett, who is named as executor in the will, had the document in his possession since it was executed and started action to have it probated with Attorney Guy E. Healy as his representative. Until an appraisal has been made of the estate Mr. Healy says its true valuation will not be known.

GIBSON WILL SIT ON LEAGUE COMMISSION

Washington, Feb. 26 (I.N.S.)—Hugh S. Gibson, recently named ambassador to Belgium, has been designated as the American representative to sit with a League of Nations commission at Geneva, March 14, to consider possible control of the private manufacture of arms and munitions of war, it was announced at the State Department today.

"THE VANITY CASE" SCORES BIG TRIUMPH AT THE FINE ARTS THEATRE

In the Gilchrist store today the one topic of comment is the musical show given by the Association. Gilchrist folk made up the whole house at the performance, for not only were all the actors members of the big store's personnel but even the scene shifters and directors of the lights came from Gilchrist's. The revue was divided into two acts and 18 scenes. The "Fashion Show," in which models paraded in creations from the store's apparel shop, was the outstanding feature.

London, Feb. 26 (A.P.)—The gross value of the estate left in England by Abe H. Hummel, New York lawyer, who died here in January, 1926, was 3,900 pounds ($18,915), it was shown today when his will was probated.

A copy of Hummel's will, made public at Portland, Me., in February, 1926, showed that the residue of the estate, after payment of several small bequests, was left to his sisters, Sophia Hummel Kalfenburgh and Bertha Hummel, living in London. A nephew, Abraham H. Kalfenburgh of Paris, was given $500.

A list of all the assets, filed in the New York surrogate's court, showed that the lawyer left a total of only $56,717, although some reports had estimated his wealth as high as $1,250,000.

Henry Hummel, a bakery wagon driver of South Portland, Me., and who claimed to be Abe Hummel's son, fought for a share in the estate, but finally settled out of court. He was said to have taken $1,750 in settlement.

Henry claimed to be the son of the noted lawyer and Leila Farrar, an opera singer who died years ago.

CHARITY BENEFITS BY MRS. GODDARD'S WILL

Worcester, Feb. 26 (A.P.)—Mrs. Anna C. Goddard, late of Grafton, in her will filed in the Probate Court today, makes a bequest of $2,000 to the William J. Delisle Post, American Legion, of Grafton, to be used to assist needy sick members.

She leaves $2,000 to the trustees of Riverside Cemetery in Grafton for the care of neglected graves and lots. Kings Daughters of Grafton get the income of $2,000 for charitable work. There is a bequest of $1,000 to the American Red Cross chapter of Worcester and another bequest of $1,000 to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

MRS. VANDERBILT SAILS; DENIES DIVORCE PLANS

New York, Feb. 26 (I. N. S.)—Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt II, the former Virginia Fair, sailed today on the French liner Paris. Her departure revived divorce rumors. Mrs. Vanderbilt has denied repeatedly that she plans to divorce her husband or to appeal to the Rota Tribunal in Rome for annulment of her marriage.

Her husband also has denied any such plan or that he hopes to marry Mrs. Barclay Warburton, Jr., who obtained a Paris divorce last July. Vanderbilt sailed recently for Europe and Mrs. Warburton, likewise denying a romance, departed shortly afterwards.

REMEMBERS TAXI NUMBER, RECOVERS HER WARDROBE

Mrs. Eleanor J. Felton, wealthy resident of Waban Hill road, Newton Center, is speeding to California today with her $1,000 wardrobe, which had been stolen, restored by the police. Mrs. Felton got the return of her finery because she remembered the number of a taxicab in which machine she left the clothes while she called at her husband's office in the Little building.

When she returned and the taxicab was gone, she notified the police. After a bit of sleuthing, Paul Lane, 23, of Hyde Park avenue, Roslindale, was arrested and the clothes recovered from a Back Bay janitor.

FIANCEE OF AGAWAM OFFICIAL GETS ESTATE

Springfield, Feb. 26 (A.P.)—Deputy Sheriff Daniel J. Collins of Agawam, who died recently, a bachelor, left nearly the whole of his estate to his fiancee, Miss Harriet M. Halliday, in his will filed today. A sister and brother of Mr. Collins will receive $1,000 each. Miss Halliday is named as executor of the will. The amount of the estate is believed to be considerable.

LIGHT RATE DROPS ONE CENT IN SPRINGFIELD

To the thirty odd electric lighting companies which have reduced their rates as a result of the drive started by Governor Fuller and Representative Henry L. Shattuck of Boston, was today added the United Electric Light Company of Springfield. The new schedule of the Springfield company calls for a cut from eight to seven cents a kilowatt hour in the household rate.

HOW TO WIN AT BRIDGE

If you want to "show them" at the club or in private play, follow Wilbur Whitehead, world's bridge master, daily in the Boston Evening American beginning Monday. No one can tell you more.

SHANTY TEARS IN VAUDE VILLE

TWO STUDIES IN SHARPEST SATIRE ARRIVE TO CHEER THE PRE-LENTEN DRAMA

"ON APPROVAL," a drama of the kind of folks who can afford the time to quarrel before breakfast, begins at the Tremont Monday. Violet Kemble Cooper and Hugh Wakefield are two principals of the cast.

"YOU MUST COME OVER," is the pleasant invitation of Mildred Brown. "We are moving 'Queen High' across the street to the Shubert and will be 'at home' to all paying guests there for the next three weeks or so." And that, as another comedian says, clears up everything.

SOME VACCINATION! As the widely travelled Captain Flagg in "What Price Glory," (Majestic) Victor McLaglen has the names of his lady friends deeply engraved on his memory. They are his "International Relations." Dolores Del Rio wonders!

THE MAIN SQUEEZE in "Charm" at the Hollis is Kenneth Dana's clasp of friendship with Betty Laurence at the end of the second act. Ken plays an awkward boob who becomes a "power with women"—maybe.

COMEDY LAYS HARD HAND ON AUTHORS

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

PITY the poor author whose faith and prayers are lifted high for the glory of clean comedy. His life, according to authentic report, is a harrowing nightmare of abandoned hopes and wretched despair. Myron Fagan, a builder of many comedies, all of them spotlessly white, draws these tragic conclusions—reflections, you might call them, based upon his own vivid experiences trying to keep the drama pure and sweet. It is true that Mr. Fagan has done very well in his own way, but candor and sympathy compel him to wipe away a trickling tear for the other boys of the craft who have toiled nobly only to be smothered under an avalanche of the so called "dirt" plays.

FIGURED in plain mathematics, as Mr. Fagan puts it, a comedy of today may hope to win success only upon an overwhelming excess of laughs and situations. Just smart comedy, well written, will not do; there must be at least 70 per cent. more grins, giggles and guffaws than was necessary to catch the public ear five years ago. He modestly gives his own sparkling comedy, "The Little Spitfire," the full benefit of these higher figures, explaining therewith a seven months' run in New York and a more than happy reception here at the Plymouth. Other spirited affairs which would have been roaring successes a few years ago have not been able to weather this season's storm of begrimed and nasty drama. "Competition with sex and smut," Mr. Fagan declares, "has borne down heavily upon the dramatist who places his trust in theatrical virtues. To hold his own in these perilous days, the writer of comedy must build better and more brilliantly than ever before, because the actual demand for clean comedy, by all the signs of the theatre, is steadily sinking while the call for suggestive plays is expanding."

A SAD state of affairs, you'll admit, but true, insists Mr. Fagan. And it is particularly distressing because stringent censorship is almost certain to follow in its wake. By taking the view that producers, for the most part, are blameless and are merely endeavoring to supply what the public wants, Mr. Fagan boldly throws reproach upon the playgoer. "Authors, too, are innocent," he cries out. "At heart they are simple children following the line of least resistance. Naturally they prefer beauty and freshness to filth. But what can they do? They must sell plays or face hunger; the baby must have shoes and every author's wife expects furs and an occasional new motor. That settles the playwright, for he writes to sell and he is bound to write what will sell."

AND now Mr. Fagan asks you to give the honest actor a clean bill of health. "More than anybody else, unless it is an author," he exclaims, "the actor detests dirty plays. But unless he stands at the top of his profession he has no choice of parts. He must accept engagements as they come, especially if a producer meets the salary requirement. Inwardly and privately the player usually takes a high moral attitude, but you must always bear in mind that seasons are short and employment is hazardous. Like the poor author, the actor is just another unwilling victim of the popularity of 'dirt' plays." Upon which Mr. Fagan departed hurriedly for the South Station.

CAROL HUMPHRIES, farcially fixed in the hilarious difficulties of attaining marriage in "Honeymooning on High." (Park).

DOLORES IS OPTIMISTIC

Dolores Costello, seen at the Metropolitan in her first starring picture, "The Third Degree," isn't exactly a Pollyanna, but she thinks that this old world is getting better.

She couldn't help but think so, she explained, when she made "The Third Degree," which is based on Charles Klein's melodrama which did so much to change the inquisition methods used several years ago by the police.

"The idea back of the picture appears to me to reflect humanity's changing attitude toward the wrong-doer," Miss Costello stated. "Surely there is a growing tendency to look back of the crime for the causes which made the individual an enemy of society. Heredity, environment, mentality—all seem to be more fully explored before the culprit is condemned."

Dolores cast a sidelong glance at Michael Curtiz, the noted European director, who was one of a group gathered for a pre-view of the picture. The Austrian at first shook his head dubiously, and then said: "When we look back at the day of the wrack and the thumb-screw, and of the Iron Maiden and of witchcraft, slavery and a thousand other expressions by which man's inhumanity to man has been exemplified, I suppose the world is getting better."

Keith's Renovated Bijou Resumes Shows Today

B. F. Keith's Bijou Theatre, which has been closed for redecoration, reopens today.

Its interior has been entirely changed as to color, carpeting, lighting fixtures and other points of adornment and it now follows along the lines of the most modern theatres in this respect.

One of the most important changes for the comfort of patrons is the new stage and screen. This part of the theatre has been remodeled to conform with modern methods of moving picture presentation. The stage has been moved back and a new screen built into it that will give the pictures a projection that is as near perfect as it is possible to obtain. The entire orchestra floor has been lowered to bring the projected picture to the proper level of the eye and the balcony seating has been rearranged so that the screen is now viewed from any seat with equal clarity.

NEXT WEEK'S NEW BILLS

TREMONT—"On Approval," a comedy by Frederick Lonsdale. The story is drawn around the subject of trial marriage, with new and amusing complications. But four persons act the play—Wallace Eddinger, Violet Kemble Cooper, Vera Neilson and Hugh Wakefield. Staged by the author and Athole Stewart; settings by James Reynolds. Produced by Charles B. Dillingham.

* * *

WILBUR—"Americana," a fantastic revue by J. P. McEvoy. A symposium of sketches satirizing everything American—its art, its business and its music. A revue that escapes the beaten paths. In the cast are Lew Brice, Roy Atwell, Evelyn Bennett and Charles Butterworth as leaders; also many lesser personages. Music by Con Conrad, Henry Souvaine and George Gershwin; scenery by John Held, Jr.; staged by Allan Dinehart. Produced by Richard Herndon.

* * *

ST. JAMES—(Stock) "Laff That Off," a comedy by Don Mullally. A story of three boys and a girl who undertakes to fill the place of a mother to them. The consequences are what you might expect—amusing and romantic. The principal parts are taken by Florence Shirley, Walter Gilbert and Charles Schofield. Staged by Mr. Schofield.

Danny Duggan and Dance Contest At Olympia

Danny Duggan, tournament dancer and Boston's native son, is appearing at the Washington St. Olympia next week. Duggan made his start in Boston as an exhibition ballroom dancer and then leaped to fame in vaudeville. He is aided by his newest partner, Ann Aker, but how long she will stay with him is a question for Danny has already lost five charming partners to Dan Cupid. The Miller Twins, however, are still with him and Roy Waltz the Australian Xylophonist.

"Prettiest Shop Girl" Seen In New Loew's State Film

From shop-girl to screen actress is the leap of Barbara Kent, who appears with Greta Garbo and John Gilbert in "Flesh and the Devil," new film at Loew's State.

Miss Kent was born in Canada, and came to Hollywood with her parents. She won the title, "Miss Hollywood," in a newspaper contest for the prettiest shopgirl, and this won her a comedy.

Clarence Brown, director of "Flesh and the Devil," saw her in the comedy and at once proclaimed her a discovery. She has an important role in this film.

LOCAL GIRL AT PARK

From the "book lands" municipality across the Charles where John Harvard installed his institution to incubate the higher branches of erudition in [illegible] charges of the nation came charming little Carol Humphreys, the pint size [illegible] of Hatcher Hughes' farce, "Honeymooning on High," now at the Park.

There is so much comedy in and out of educational circles in Cambridge that it is not strange that Carol decided early in her career to be a comedienne. To [illegible] a real feminine [illegible] the way to better training was to get into a good stock company, so on the completion of her high school studies she enrolled with a stock company in New Bedford.

Here she played a wide range of parts, even including old women roles, but she made them funny, too. She obtained her real training with the admirable Bonstelle company in Detroit, which was the cradle of so many prominent players of the stage, notably Katherine Cornell. Miss Humphreys registered her big hit as the amusing little slavey [illegible] in the farce, "Laff That Off." In this she so delighted Broadwayites that she was stamped "a natural," derived from the terminology of those who indulge and win in the indoor sport politely called "galloping dominoes."

Looking Ahead

MARCH 12—
Wallace Beery in "Casey at the Bat" at the Metropolitan.

MARCH 14—
"A Little Journey" at Loew's State.

LOCATES THE AUDIENCE'S FUNNY BONE

Roy Atwell is master of ceremonies in "Americana," the revue by J. P. McEvoy which comes to the Wilbur Monday. Mr. Atwell is also master of comedy, having learned through many years of experience and keen observation what makes the average audience laugh. He insists on "average."

Roy Atwell

"Because every audience is not equally receptive," he explained. "An actor who goes before the public night after night does not always find the same mood. [illegible] does not always find the same understanding. Therefore he must learn to sense the mood of his audience and meet it. Of all the ingredients which go into the art of comedy I think that one thing the most difficult for a comedian to do.

"It is especially necessary in a revue like "Americana" because of the subtleties of its lines; the quality of its satire; its swift-moving comparisons of American traditions, habits and relations held up to good-natured ridicule. No slap-stick comedy method would ever serve in presenting J. P. McEvoy's satire to the public. The comedian who strives to extract laughs would never get them in "Americana.""

Asked to explain the thing which makes the average audience laugh, Mr. Atwell made an interesting list.

"A [illegible] accompanying a funny line will always get a laugh. A break of the voice in the middle of a certain type of speech [illegible] usually being a [illegible]. The [illegible] or pause [illegible] is another pretty sure [illegible]. When there are two laughs in a single speech the wise comedian prevents the first [illegible] out to kill the effect of the last and greater laugh."

ELGAR MUSIC PLEASES AT SYMPHONY

By MOSES SMITH

The listener at the Symphony concerts of this week discovers that the surest way of killing a composer is by overplaying his music. Last week an all-Respighi program was successful partly because of the presence of the composer as conductor and pianist, and of his wife as singer in her husband's music.

But whatever the intrinsic virtues of Respighi's music, one afternoon devoted solely to his compositions should have sufficed for a while at least. Consequently the playing, at yesterday's concert, of a new piece by the Italian master, "Church Windows," did not come off too well. Serge Koussevitzky returned to the conductor's stand, worked his hardest to attain a favorable reception for a work being given its first performance in the world, but to little avail.

Aside from the fact that the audience was sated with Respighi's music, the new composition did not seem to have the vitality of several works heard here last week. There is a tremendously sonorous second movement in Respighi's grandest manner, and little else of interest.

The remainder of the program sounded as advance expectation indicated it would. "The Swan of Tuonela," Sibelius' legend, made an apt prelude to a concert that never became exciting. Rimsky-Korsakov's "Sadko" is not heavyweight musical fare despite passages of beauty.

Only the "Enigma" variations of Elgar, which closed the concert, were thoroughly gratifying to hear. It is fifteen years since any of the Englishman's music has been heard at a regular Symphony concert, though one of the transcriptions was played two years ago and the "Cockaigne" overture was given at a Tuesday afternoon concert last year.

These variations were scored not in the modern manner, but they are thoroughly musical and exhibit ingenuity in instrumental development. Some of them would make ideal "Pops" selections.

BOOK AGENT'S DELIGHT

WELCOME INTRUSION. In "An Affair of the Follies" at the Washington Street Olympia, Lloyd Hughes makes a call on Billie Dove and is none too frigidly received at all, at all.

Can't Get Ahead of Frank.

"Why is a rabbit's nose always shiny?" coyly asks Julia Sanderson of Frank Crumit in "Queen High". The big boy never hesitates. "Because, my dear, his powder puff is on the other end," indicating that ukulele practice is good for the mind.

STAGE AND SCREEN

Back to the Old Home Town.

For those who delight in the musical treats of the modern picture palace, it is announced at the Met that Violinist Frederick Fradkin, former concert master of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will give a short program in the week's new show.

BEST BITS OF FILM CLIPPED FROM THE REELS OF THE NEW WEEK'S SHOWINGS

A SLIP OR A STEP IN? This is the puzzle for Rockliffe Fellowes, the lad who fancieth at the lingerie department. To the silk-clad Dolores Costello this intrusion is but another of the sorrows of satin in "The Third Degree" at the Metropolitan.

HANDLING HIM WITH GLOVES! In "Flesh and the Devil" at Loew's State Marc McDermott hands John Gilbert the "mitten" because there's something between them—Greta Garbo, who sees visions of pistols and coffee to come.

THERE'S NO TELLING what this joke may be. The poet Goethe wrote very few snappy lines in his immortal masterpiece, "Faust." But this one is good for a laugh with William Dieterle and Camilla Horn. The film shows at the Orpheum.

ROW OVER VOW seen in this post-breakfast scene from "Marriage," Modern and Beacon film of H. G. Wells' story of the sanctity of the hastily given nuptial promises. The principal contestants are Virginia Valli and Allan Durant, a promising newcomer.

'ON APPROVAL' IS FINALLY DELIVERED

"On Approval," which opens Monday at the Tremont, is one of those plays for which A. H. Woods contended back in the days when people first began to doubt there was such a drama as Bob McLaughlin's "The Pearl of Great Price." The script was never delivered, however, owing to years of work in Arthur Lonsdale's headquarters and finally Freddy returned the advance royalty paid to Woods.

Frederick Lonsdale

Lonsdale hasn't changed since the time when he first agreed to write a play for Arch Selwyn, the latter had to lock him in a hotel room and keep him there until the work was finished. Even after the three and more years since the Londoner first agreed to do this comedy, he arrived in town with the script uncompleted, and when the first act was placed in rehearsal by Mr. Dillingham Lonsdale was sequestered in his hotel apartment frantically finishing the third one.

"On Approval" is said to be a society play of the type readily reputed to the brilliant young writer. The cast comprises Wallace Eddinger, Violet Kemble Cooper, Vera Neilson and Hugh Wakefield. There are two stage settings, one the interior of a mansion at Mayfair, London, and the other the interior of a home in Scotland.

Noted Garden Sets Scene For New Scollay Film

A noted garden spot has been used as the background of "The Magic Garden," Gene Stratton Porter story in film fare at the Scollay Sq.

This enchanting place is the estate of Mrs. George Young in Ross Valley, Marin County, California. The garden dates its inception back to the Spanish holdings in that State, where this particular spot was chosen for its location because of the ancient and splendid trees which cover a generous share of its five acres. These impressive trees are still to be seen in their ever increasing glory.

CHANGES IN VAUDEVILLE

LOEW'S ORPHEUM—Jim Toney and Ann Norman in the farce comedy skit, "A Man About Town"; Hal Willis and Hazel McFarlane in the novelty musical act, "Dancing Pirates"; Frank Cook and Jean Vernon in the playlet, "Oh, Amy!"; West, Gates and Haines, "Dispensers of Hilarity," in a comedy dance act; Lillian Morley and Rae Leader in "Songs a la Carte"; Achilles and Newman in "Old Greek Pastimes," and others. The feature photoplay is "Faust," with Emil Jannings.

B. F. KEITH'S—Will Mahoney, "nut" comedian; Madame Hamilton Jeffries' "Forecast of Fashion"; display of wearing apparel accompanied by Joe Rines' orchestra; Coram, English ventriloquist, in his act called "Whitehall"; the Dodge Twins in songs and steps; Bobby O'Neil and company in a miniature musical comedy called "Oh, Bobby"; Norbetto Ardelli, Italian-American tenor; Carleton and Ballew in songs; the Janowsky troupe of acrobats, and others.

'QUEEN HIGH' MOVES TO SHUBERT

Lawrence Schwab's "Queen High," accurately termed "the oldest inhabitant" of the town's current theatrical season, moves Monday to the Shubert.

Lawrence Schwab

Having worn out its stimulated period—but by no means its popularity—at the Wilbur, it now takes up its abode across the street in a larger playhouse, and Mr. Schwab promises, with something by way of reduced rates.

"This move," says Schwab, "enables me to make a reduction in prices to meet the latter day choice of those theatregoers who still want the better things of the theatre at a cost commensurate with the capacity of their purse.

"It has always been a source of great satisfaction to me to bring my attractions to Boston. My former productions, such as "The Gingham Girl," "Captain Jinks" and "Lady Fair," were all favorably received. But "Queen High" has been by far the most successful.

"Unfortunately for me, I have been able to secure the Shubert for but three weeks. Therefore I must remove "Queen High" on Saturday night, March 9."

VARIETY AND PICTURES

SCOLLAY SQUARE — Margaret Morris in "The Magic Garden" and vaudeville.

WALDRON'S—(Burlesque) "Give and Take," farce comedy with Abe Reynolds and Phoebe Hillson. Also pictures and vaudeville.

BOWDOIN SQUARE—Alec Francis and Lois Moran in "The Music Master"; Eucharistic Congress pictures and vaudeville.

FILM FARE FOR NEW WEEK

METROPOLITAN—(Starting today) Dolores Costello in "The Third Degree" (first run), adapted from the Charles Klein stage play. A police melodrama dealing with the forcible methods used to obtain confessions from alleged malefactors. Also in the cast are Louise Dresser, Kate Price, Jason Robards, Rockliffe Fellowes and Michael Vavitch. Michael Curtiz directed. A Warner Brothers' picture. On the stage, Boris Petroff's "Paper Review."

* * *

LOEW'S STATE—John Gilbert and Greta Garbo in "Flesh and the Devil" (first run), adapted from Hermann Sudermann's novel, "The Undying Past." Romantic drama of sociological conditions of the Old World hanging on traditions of love and marriage. Also in the cast are Marc McDermott, Lars Hansen and Barbara Kent. Clarence Brown directed. A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture. On the stage, Adler Weil and Herman, "The California Humming Birds," recording stars.

* * *

OLYMPIA—(Starting tomorrow) Billie Dove in "An Affair of the Follies" (first run), adapted from Dixie Willson's story, "Here Y'Are, Brother." Comedy drama of the troubles of a chorus girl as a married wage earner. Also in the cast are Lloyd Hughes, Lewis Stone and Arthur Stone. Millard Webb directed. A First National picture. Also vaudeville.

* * *

NEW BOSTON—(Starting tomorrow) Vera Reynolds in "Corporal Kate" (first run), adapted from the story by Zelda Sears and Marion Orth. Human interest yarn of woman's side of the World War, with tears, laughs and romance. Also in the cast are Julia Faye and Kenneth Thompson. Paul Sloane directed. A Producers' picture. Also vaudeville.

* * *

MODERN AND BEACON—(Starting today) "Marriage" (first run), adapted from the novel by H. G. Wells. Domestic drama dealing with the sanctity of the nuptial vow. In the cast are Virginia Valli and Allan Durant. William Neill directed. A William Fox picture. Also "Rubber Tires" (first run) with Harrison Ford and Bessie Love. A Producers' picture.

* * *

FENWAY—(Starting today) Margaret Morris in "The Magic Garden" (first run), adapted from the Gene Stratton Porter novel. Boy and girl romance. Leo Meehan directed. An F. B. O. picture. Also "New York" with Ricardo Cortez and Estelle Taylor.

Starting Wednesday, Richard Barthelmess in "The White Black Sheep." On the same bill, Corinne Griffith in "The Lady in Ermine."

Virginia Valli Sets New Style In Evening Gown

Virginia Valli sets a new style in evening dress in the film version of the novel, "Marriage," by H. G. Wells, with a beautiful gown of silver brocade. The film is now at the Modern and Beacon.

This gown, especially designed for Miss Valli, is severe as to line and accentuates her regal bearing. It is made with an extremely long tight bodice cut in a V in back and front and with a wide bouffant skirt cut slightly shorter in front. The hem is lined with coral taffeta and the dress is trimmed with wide bands of rhinestones at the belt and around the neckline.

With this gown she wears a severe head-dress of silver and rhinestones.

"Faust," Cinema Triumph, Will Show at the Orpheum

If you had your life to live over again?

That question has occurred to every man and woman at some time, and must eternally recur. It is a question that can never be answered in life. But in motion pictures, in "Faust," for instance, an answer is provided.

Old Dr. Faust sells his soul to the devil in exchange for his youth, a youth in which he lived solely for knowledge and allowed "life" to pass him by.

How he spends his regained youth is one of the outstanding elements that has made "Faust" a deathless piece of literature, a magnificent grand opera and, as a photoplay, one of the greatest accomplishments in the cinema world. The film will show next week at Loew's Orpheum.

Benefit Show for Theatre Men

Abraham Coplen

Hugo Lundgren

Frank D. Orvitt

William C. Nixon

The annual benefit performance of the Boston Theatre Treasurers' Club will be held on Friday afternoon, March 11th, at the Colonial Theatre. Stars from all the attractions in Boston will attend and be presented to the audience by Jack Donahue, of "Sunny," who will be master of ceremonies. The benefit has always been a sell-out.

The range of entertainment which will be provided is wide. Drama, musical comedy bits, dances, colorful ensembles, and various other types of amusement will be put on by leading actors and actresses in the city.

The biggest and most popular stars have agreed to take part. Friday afternoon was selected because none of the big legitimate houses have matinees on that day and all the most talented performers will be able to appear and contribute specialties.

Persons in the amusement field have a warm spot in their hearts for the Theatre Treasurers' Club. The proceeds of the performance will go to a fund maintained to aid the sick among its members and to aid those in distress.

The money will be handled by the officers of the organization, as follows: William Nixon, Shubert Theatre, President; Frank D. Orvitt, Tremont, vice-president; Hugo W. J. Lundgren, Shubert, treasurer; Abraham Coplen, Gaiety, secretary, and J. Albert Brackett, counsel.

BOSTON BEAN FAVORED IN WAR FILM

Mexico is represented by Dolores Del Rio in "What Price Glory," the war comedy now at the Majestic. London's emissary is Victor McLaglen, and Los Angeles has several native sons in the cast. But New England itself, also has an actor of note in the film the celebrated Boston Baked Bean!

According to Laurence Stallings who wrote the story, and Raoul Walsh, who made the picture, baked beans are the last word when it comes to really cementing international relations. Diplomats may converse, statesmen may confer, but it is the lowly Boston bean that really does the job.

Anyone who has been in the Army can tell you all about beans, and in one of the scenes in the photoplay, Private Lipinsky and Private Kiper, knowing no French, are desperately attempting an entente cordiale with the feminine inhabitants of a village just behind the front.

When all else fails, they gloomily sit down to consume their heaping dishes of beans. Thereupon a ponderously upholstered, but by no means unlovely Gallic damsel appears and snatches one of the delectable dainties. She smacks her lips, she takes another, and in six seconds times, she is seated between the two wondering leathernecks, scooping up beans by the spoonful, and bestowing upon the bewildered privates not only her most gracious glances, but also one black quart bottle that contains practically anything you choose to name save water.

"Quality Street" at the Repertory. (Second week.) One of the most delicious of the Barrie love stories.

BOSTON GIRL IN "CHARM"

Mary Walsh

Courage and persistance plus capability are seldom so successfully capitalized as they have been by Mary Walsh, one of Boston's fair daughters, who is seen in the ingenue role of "Charm," at the Hollis. The long and discouraging rounds of the theatrical agencies was not for Miss Walsh because she was fortunate enough to have her chance while studying in Boston at the Emerson College of Oratory during her senior year.

Channing Pollock at that time was presenting his popular play, "The Fool," and as a means of directing unusual attention to the engagement during its run, the project was entered into of having capable Boston amateurs play the parts in a special performance to which the public would be invited.

More than 300 applicants stormed the theatre and Mr. Pollock saw the opportunity to be enlisted in this unusual cast. There was more than the mere experience of playing a part, because Mr. Pollock offered contracts to the capable applicants giving them the same part they played in one of the many road companies sent out in "The Fool." Miss Walsh was successful in landing the role of Mary Margaret, the little crippled girl of the play.

Strangely enough, Miss Walsh was the only member of this company of amateurs to so impress the author that she was offered and accepted a contract to play her part. She accepted and was soon in the role in the number one company throughout the entire following season.

SHERIDAN RECITAL.

Frank Sheridan, pianist, will appear in concert at Jordan Hall Tuesday evening, March 1. His program includes a group of 18th century compositions.

Maria Jeritza Comes to Symphony Tomorrow

Maria Jeritza

Maria Jeritza makes her only appearance of the season at Symphony Hall tomorrow afternoon. The prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company will sing two operatic arias in addition to a program of songs. At her only previous Boston concert Mme. Jeritza filled Symphony Hall to capacity, and created a favorable impression, with a beautiful voice and equally beautiful stage bearing.

Among her numbers for tomorrow are "Il est doux, il est bon," from Massenet's "Herodiade"; "In questa Reggia," from Puccini

War Hero Discovered As Extra In New Film

Perhaps one of the most unusual "finds" among props of a motion picture studio was made recently when Vera Reynolds, starring in "Corporal Kate," new film at the Keith-Albee Boston, discovered the army pistol assigned to her had notches on the handle, and the initials "Lt. L. B." carved deeply above the notches.

"Lt. L. B.," it was learned, was working as an "extra" in the production and he explained the pistol's origin and the notches. He was given wide publicity during the war for his bravery, but said that he did not wish to have his name used in connection with any story because of his present circumstances.

The pistol left his possession when he was severely wounded just before the signing of the armistice and reverted back to the government.

WERRENRATH CONCERT.

Reinald Werrenrath, well liked baritone, will sing at Symphony Hall Sunday afternoon, March 6, for his only Boston appearance of the season.

ISHOP WILSON SAYS DRY LAW WILL LAST

Another series of articles by aders of public life, speaking or and against prohibition, is resented here. Today's article, ritten by Bishop Luther B. Wilson, declares that the unpopularity of a law is no justifiation for its repeal. He urges ore drastic enforcement.

By LUTHER B. WILSON
esident Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church

ew York, Feb. 26.—The [illegible] amendment to our Fedl constitution was formally and [illegible] adopted and ratified. As [illegible] no question can be raised.

It has been asserted that in this measure the nation was taken by surprise, but for more than a hundred years there had been an organized attack upon the beverage liquor traffic [illegible] the often expressed purpose and hope of ultimately writing [illegible] into the constitution, [illegible] steady progress of restrictive legislation would have promised [illegible].

AR HASTENED ACTION.

The [illegible] about by the World War [illegible] the need [illegible] legislation and undoubtedly hastened its enactment, but there [illegible] as to the [illegible] involvements. [illegible] was [illegible] belief of certain groups [illegible] interest was [illegible] effective attack, so entrenched [illegible] was it.

Beyond that, it had been so long [illegible] defiant of every law, [illegible] absolutely irresponsive to every [illegible] consideration and human appeal that some had apparently [illegible] down to the conviction that [illegible] was really not amenable to law, [illegible] or divine.

The day upon which the thirty-sixth state ratified the action of the National Congress was as the day of judgment, and from the [illegible] of it many [illegible] not yet to [illegible].

HE SEVEREST TEST.

This is possibly the severest test [illegible] which the nation [illegible] is subject. The threat of [illegible] national amendment is national [illegible].

The nation will not [illegible] the amendment. It will not [illegible] nullification of its constitution [illegible] would be permitted [illegible] legislature [illegible] for its [illegible].

With [illegible] facts and essential principles of government before us, it [illegible] be concluded that a popular [illegible], so far as the law is concerned, has no authority or right [illegible] individual or group is [illegible] to recognize.

To insist that the unpopularity of a law is a warrant for its repeal is to take a position which cannot be maintained.

ILL NOT LOWER.

The [illegible] that public sentiment [illegible] determine the range of legislative enactment is [illegible] if urged by those who are [illegible] lowering the [illegible].

The [illegible] law on the ground that it is an infringement of personal rights [illegible] recognizes the necessary limitations of individual action involved [illegible] the example that [illegible].

It can not be believed that the nation will deliberately lower the [illegible] which has been set. We [illegible] that a land which [illegible] standard to the world [illegible] for its own laws.

AWYERS CLASH OVER GARAGE PERMIT APPEAL

[illegible] today featured [illegible] in the appeal [illegible] Fire Marshal George C. Neal [illegible] permit to [illegible] at No. 312 Huntington avenue [illegible] Mission Church and [illegible] Good Shepherd. [illegible] Martin Hays, counsel [illegible] O'Connor, counsel [illegible] It developed [illegible] $10,000 and $15,000 [illegible].

OMAN SENTENCED FOR THEFT OF WATCH

[illegible] with larceny of a watch, [illegible] of Allston [illegible] Cambridge, pleaded guilty and [illegible] sentenced [illegible] in Newton today. [illegible] Newton [illegible] When [illegible] left [illegible] watch [illegible] missing [illegible].

R. I. S. PIDGEON'S AUTO CRASH CASE CONTINUED

The case of Dr. [illegible] S. Pidgeon, of Arlington, charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was continued Friday in Newton court today. Police allege that while driving [illegible] two women [illegible] Pidgeon crashed into a wrecking machine in Newtonville. He was [illegible] about the face.

AILOR DIES OF GAS FROM PRESSING IRON

John Johnson, thirty-six, a tailor, No. 875 Huntington avenue, Roxbury, is dead at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, a victim of accidental gas poisoning, according to police. The man was found on the floor of his shop, with gas flowing from an unlighted pressing iron, by James Calder, janitor of the building.

RICH PIKE CAN'T CUT TIE WITH ERRING WIFE

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 26 (A.P.)—Vice-Chancellor John Bentley [illegible] has denied a divorce to [illegible] Pike of East Orange from [illegible] Dorothy Palmer Pike of "[illegible] Fires," a Broadway revue.

Pike, who is in the export business and is a direct descendant of [illegible] for whom Pike's Peak was named, married the then model in [illegible] in December, 1922. Their [illegible] was short-lived.

Accusing Pike had proved two instances of unfaithfulness on the part of his wife, Vice-Chancellor Bentley held that since the husband [illegible] of his bride's ante-nuptial incontinence he contributed to her lapse by refusing to give her a home, allow her the use of his name or to admit publicly she was his wife.

Pike's contention was that the prestige of his wealthy family would have been lessened should his marriage become known, and that at the time not only would his allowance have been discontinued, but he might have been disinherited.

"A [illegible] excuse could hardly be given," [illegible] Vice-Chancellor Bentley in [illegible].

"Under the circumstances of this case a [illegible] is under a peculiar duty to protect his wife against her own weakness. The defendant knew at the time of his marriage his wife had been unable to resist temptation. Not only did he fail to give her a home, but he never even gave her his name. He never threw around her the protection every husband is supposed to give his wife, however immoral she may be. He did not give her the comfort of his society, as a man is supposed to do. She was left, under all these circumstances, with abundant opportunity to seek the solace of the companionship of others, and the inevitable came to pass."

was elected to exercise HIS own opinion, not that of a farm bloc, or anybody else. No one will deny that in writing his veto President Coolidge showed political courage, putting what he believes to be the duty of nineteen twenty-seven ahead of his political prospects in 1928.

Even farmers that disagree with him most violently will admire his courage.

THIS IS WRITTEN in California where oil replaces gold as the centre of men's hopes and cupidity. Oil, more than anything else, except human intelligence, runs the world. Locomotives and battleships burn it; 22,000,000 American automobiles run by the gasoline; machines with their endless millions of horsepower grind on a protecting oil film. You might like to hear of a visit to the world of oil, made today upon the invitation of President K. R. Kingsbury of the Standard Oil Company of California. The trip was directed by Loren L. Hillman, who, with his father, is responsible for production of the oil, and L. D. Dimm, who changes the oil into more than 400 different products after it reaches the gigantic refinery at El Segundo, on the edge of the Pacific.

SINBAD'S Diamond Valley and all the wealth of Golconda were as nothing compared with one strip of land forty miles long, twenty miles wide, around Los Angeles.

That little "farm" yields now one-seventh of all the oil produced on earth.

CONCERNING OIL you may say of the United States, "He hath not dealt so with any Nation, and as for His mercies, they have not known them."

The whole world produces 3,000,000 barrels of oil a day and the United States' share is 2,000,000 barrels.

In 1916, the harbor of Los Angeles exported 770,000 barrels of oil, practically all exported by Standard Oil of California.

In 1926, Standard Oil of California alone exported 42,000,000 barrels from this harbor. And the total shipment was more than 120,000,000 barrels.

HUNTING OIL is a romantic pursuit, calculated to cause heart failure. In the newest "Seal Beach Field," nearly all the big companies had driven "wildcat" wells, giving up after spending $2,500,000 on eighteen "dry holes."

Then the other day Marland Oil drilled a hole on soft marsh formed by the Pacific Ocean, close to the other holes. Out burst the oil, 3,000 barrels a day, pushed up by gas below, and somebody over night made ten millions. Others with "oil leases" in the neighborhood will probably make fifty millions more. What are gold mines compared with that?

AS INTERESTING as the oil well romance is the vast El Segundo plant with its thousands of employes, that changes the crude oil into products that include gasoline, kerosene, lubricating oils and fuel oil.

Mr. Dimm says: "I'll show you the top of one large oil tank," and drives you to an isolated "tank farm" in one corner of his 1,100-acre plant. The great oil tanks are separated by high banks to keep oil and fire from spreading in case of explosion, protected by scientific steel and copper lightning rod towers, shooting far up in the air.

Off hand, what would you expect the size of a big oil tank to be? Several tanks hold 3,000,000 barrels, and the top of each covers nearly twenty acres, enough for a small farm. A lightning flash there would send three million dollars into the air, or many times that sum if the fire spread.

MR. DIMM shows 52 round "barrels," each holding 1,000 barrels of oil, a fiercely burning oil fire under each "distilling tank." First gasoline rises, then kerosene in a vapor. It passes through pipes, constantly cooled by millions of gallons of salt water pumped in from the Pacific Ocean. In a building nearby you see a long row of spouting pipes hermetically enclosed in glass. Each is spouting gasoline or kerosene at the rate of 3,000 gallons an hour.

AS CONCERNS Standard Oil of California, and other companies doubtless, the vast oil business is established on a basis of exploitation and development that should bring untold billions to the United States in years to come.

The California branch of Standard Oil, a separate corporation, is developing new oil fields in Texas, Montana, the Philippines, Alaska, Colombia, Ecuador and Argentina, besides sending trained geologists to hunt probable oil lands in all countries, in the tropics, and in the Arctic Circle, where a well has been "brought in."

This one oil company has more than 1,000 miles of pipe lines and maintains a great fleet of tank steamers.

THIS COMPANY realizes that the 19,000 employes on its payroll are at least as important as oil in the ground or machinery to distill it. Standard Oil of California has no strikes. Its lowest pay for rough labor is $4.96 for eight hours, and all work is on an eight-hour basis. After a man has worked for the company one year he can invest 20 per cent. of his earnings in Standard Oil of California stock at the market price. To every dollar that he invests, the company adds fifty cents to his investment as its contribution.

In the first 22 months' operation of his plan, employes saved and invested in Standard Oil of California $7,709,243. To that sum the company added $3,854,621. Dividends amounted to $441,513. Thus, in 22 months, employes of this one oil corporation saved and accumulated, including the corporation's gift, $12,005,513.

THAT OUGHT to be a fairly good antidote for what high finance calls "Bolshevism" and what common sense would call "the restlessness of men that have nothing to show for a life's work."

Henry Ford says "Standard Oil is the best managed business in the world," and he is a good judge.

HUB MAN PROPOSED AS U. S. RADIO HEAD

Washington, Feb. 26—The name of William H. O'Brien of Boston, chief of the telephone and telegraph division of the Massachusetts Public Utilities, has been suggested to the President for appointment to the new Federal Radio Commission. Mr. O'Brien has been in Washington during the past two days.

RESULTS

Dogs, Cats, Other Pets 138
IRISH terrier pups, can be registered. Kelly, 377 Market St., Brighton 1289-M.

Irish Terriers have become very popular as pets, according to Mrs. P. Kelly of 377 Market Street, Brighton.

A small ad in the Classified Pages of the American and Advertiser was the method employed by Mrs. Kelly to sell the pups. In three days the dogs were sold.

FORMING PLANS TO ADVERTISE BOSTON

Metropolitan Boston will hold first place among effectively advertised cities if the plans being considered by the Commercial and Industrial Bureau of the Boston Chamber of Commerce are carried out.

The Committee on Commercial and Industrial Affairs headed by Henry P. Kendall, has already taken up the job and a survey of what has been done elsewhere in the country is being made by the staff of the bureau.

M. D. Liming, manager of the chamber's bureau and secretary of the committee, said: "The immediate job before the committee is to ascertain whether or not the chamber is doing all it reasonably can do to advertise Metropolitan Boston and find out what, if anything else, should be done. A special meeting of the committee will be called within a few days to continue the consideration of the matter.

"The chamber is determined that every reasonable means shall be taken to see to it that Boston is given the attention it is entitled to have. The city is growing at the rate of about 25,000 persons per year. The city has shown a remarkably steady growth in manufacturing since 1918. Boston bank clearings have nearly trebled. The city is more prosperous than ever before and has more opportunities for the right kind of business man.

"The chamber, through this bureau, proposes to see that the public is told about these facts and the opportunities that Boston can show so that the nation's fourth Metropolitan city can take its rightful place in the public mind."

Other members of the committee are: F. Lauriston Bullard, C. B. Burleigh, Harry D. Carter, Richard B. Carter, Victor M. Cutter, Edward Dana, Ernest B. Freeman, Willis R. Fisher, Alfred C. Howell, William M. Rand, George A. Sagendorph and R. L. Tweedy.

Time for Filing State Income Tax Returns Ends Tuesday

Only three days are left in which to file State income tax returns. All returns must be in on or before March 1, next Tuesday.

A return must be filed by every resident of the Commonwealth whose income for the year 1926 exceeds $2,000. Single persons are allowed and exemption up to $2000, and married persons are exempt up to $2,500, with the exemption of $250 additional for each dependent child.

Those obliged to pay a tax may do so when filing their returns. The taxes are not due, however, until October 1.

HIS GIRL-WIFE GONE, HUSBAND WANTS BABY

As Antonio Cimellaro hammers the taps and adjusts the heels on other people's shoes in his little shop at No. 927 Centre street, West Roxbury, he idly speculates on whether or not his child-wife, Josephine, is happy with another man.

But the little shoemaker is most vitally interested when his thoughts turn to his little year-old "Tony," for the baby is the one thing he wants more than anything else in life.

The child-wife and the baby disappeared from the Cimellaro home at No. 29 Chelsea street, East Boston, on February 17. A day or two earlier, the young wife had received a mysterious telegram from New York.

The little shoemaker bore the blow in silence. Then a stranger appeared in his shop, claiming to be a special officer. He read a telegram to the shoemaker, the message saying that little Antonio had been placed with a family in Newark, N. J. The stranger disappeared with the telegram, without giving any address in Newark where the baby might be found.

The husband communicated with the police and learned the stranger was an imposter.

"All I want is my baby back," the shoemaker declared today. "Josephine—" and he shrugged his shoulders— "I don't want her no more."

Sharkey Confident Good Quality | McTigue a Mystery Now K. O. Artist

CONFIDENCE SHARKEY'S MIDDLE NAME

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 26 Jack Sharkey, in the finishing whirl of his training for his big scrap with Mike McTigue next week, pauses to announce that he knows he can win. That is considered sufficiently important as a matter of news to be displayed prominently in papers throughout Florida.

Nick Flatley

Confidence is young Mister Sharkey's middle name. It is a quality that may carry him right up to the roof. The former sailor sincerely believes that he can beat Maloney, and then polish off Gene Tunney. It will be hard to knock that belief out of his head.

Jack has the same weight advantage over Shrewd Michael, that Maloney enjoyed in the Delaney war. It helped James mightily, and will aid Sharkey if the going in the early rounds is anything like even.

McTigue just now is one of the mysteries of the ring. For years and years he was a defensive fighter, tricky and crafty. But he didn't like to mix. He never tried to flatten his opponents. He was content to tangle them up, and win decisions.

Suddenly he snapped out of it. Startling purses were held up for heavyweights, and Mike decided to go after them. He began to kayo his enemies. His last victim was Paul Berlenbach, who used to be a rough, tough customer. Paul was whaled right out of the picture in very short order.

Sharkey will be no Berlenbach, though. Oom Paul was punched out. He had been through too many gruelling battles. His style was to let the other fellow tire himself out, and then, bam! That style is all right, but the boxer who practices it has to take plenty of punishment. He gets punched drunk after a while.

Sharkey is young and strong, and one of the fastest of all the big boys. He has never been beaten up. He has the vitality of youth, and a vaunting ambition. It may be a bad fight to watch. McTigue is an aggravating enemy, who knows more tricks than a conjurer.

But the Boston entry will be in there with something to shoot for, and his only handicap will be the fact that he's favorite. Even in these days, a favorite has to win once in a while.

Battling Nelson Freed of Film Theft Charge

Butte, Mont., Feb. 26 (A.P.)—Oscar Battling Nelson, former lightweight champion, today stood cleared of grand larceny charges in connection with the disappearance of [illegible] showing the fight in which he lost his title to Ad Wolgast seventeen years ago.

The film, which disappeared when Nelson was appearing in vaudeville here in March, 1926, was returned to William J. Sullivan, theatre owner. He secured a warrant charging the former champion with grand larceny. It arrived by express from Williston, N. D. The sender gave the name of Bill Dunn.

On learning that Nelson had been ordered to the psychopathic ward of a Chicago hospital for observation, Sullivan announced he would drop the charges. Sullivan said he was not interested in the identity of the shipper and that he was through with the affair.

Some authors divide delicate children into two broad classes: the tubercular with bright eyes, oval face, thin skin, narrow nose and long thin bones, and the so-called scrofulous with heavy figure, thick pale opaque skin, large hands and large thick bones.

The kind of child who is most liable to tuberculosis has a portrait something like the following. It is often "beautiful" with fine, dry and delicately tinted skin. The whites of the eyes are unusually clear and the lashes are long and silky. The eyebrows are high and arched and the hair of the scalp is soft and long. The teeth are often unusually good. The palate may be pale, high and narrow.

Girls who are confined indoors all day will find that a brisk hike or a swim is more restful than sitting about doing nothing after business hours. Many a busy housewife rests her nerves, mind and body by throwing all her mental energy into an occasional game of bridge.

You need both a vocation and an avocation in life to keep well-balanced, happy, healthy and beautiful. You need both work and play.

But in addition to work and recreation, every woman needs rest—relaxation—plenty of it—if she is to feel and look her best.

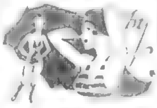
The HOLLYWOOD GIRL



by BEATRICE BURTON

"The LOVE WRECKER"

Adventures of a Girl From New England in the Movie Colony

READ THIS FIRST

BOBBIE RANSOM is a Dedham school teacher, "movie-mad." For years she has been dreaming of going to Hollywood to "break into pictures." And now, at 22, she makes up her mind to go.

She asks her father, a widower, to lend her $500, but he refuses. Bobbie threatens to ask her lover, ANDREW JERROLD, for the money, much to the horror of her spinster aunt, MISS GERTRUDE RANSOM, who has been like a mother to her all her life.

That night Andy drives up to see her, in one of the "used" automobiles that he buys and sells very successfully. Bobbie asks him to lend her some money. He refuses. "Why should I give you the money to go away with?" he asks. "away from me—when I want you to stay here and marry me."

The next morning, Aunt Gertrude comes home from church with the news that a certain MRS. BURRAGE is going to California for her health and is considering taking along a teacher to care for her little girl, JEAN. Aunt Gertrude tells Bobbie that Mrs. Burrage mentioned asking Bobbie to go, and while she is speaking the telephone in the hall rings. Bobbie rushes to answer it, sure that it is Mrs. Burrage.

Andy Jerrold is blue about it when she breaks the news to him, and she tells him she hopes that as soon as she is gone, he will find some other girl and fall in love with her. She means it too. Her feeling for Andy is one of warm friendship and nothing more.

"Oh." For a moment Harris sat like one frozen. Then he seemed to collect his thoughts. He smiled weakly and said: "Carl is a fine young fellow. He will make a place in the world. I—I wish you happiness, Marie."

"What for? I didn't say I had accepted him."

[illegible]

Marie snuggled down at his shoulder. "If that is so," she whispered [illegible] enough for him to hear, "If that is so, Harris dear, you might begin by kissing me."

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY.

A GIRL is trying to have her fiance arrested because she discovered he's engaged to seven other women. She's silly to exert herself. As soon as the rest of the women find it out he'll probably give himself up.

EIGHT fiancees are a lot in any town.

BUT you can't blame a guy if love comes to him wholesale.

IF a fellow has a few extra engagement rings there's no sense in wasting them.

ROMANCE is a wonderful thing, even at retail.

ANY man who has eight sweethearts may be a cad, but he's also a genius.

IT takes a lot of nerve and twice as much ability.

THE average fellow is willing to start in with two or three.

IF you manage to fool these then you can gradually work your way up.

NO man should overload his checkbook.

STILL, eight fiancees gives a fellow a sweetie every day in the week and an extra one for Saturday and Sunday.

THERE'S nothing like carrying a spare.

A MAN in Chicago was engaged so many girls that he had take them out two at a time.

HE had over $50,000 outstanding jewelry.

HE needed some cash last mont and it took him three weeks call in all his solitaires.

HE got most of them back, b there are still a couple of gi in Kansas that he hasn't heard fro

LOVE is everybody's privilege. man can be engaged to as ma women as he feels like. It's on when he starts marrying more th one of them that he begins getti into trouble.

BOBBIE AND HIS PA

By WILLIAM F KIRK

I GUESS this wurld is about as high up the mountain of Nolledge as it is going to git, sed Ma last nite. We were speeking about that subjeck at our Wimmens Club this afternoon, sed Ma.

I am glad you daims haf it all cut & dried, sed Pa.

Doant you think we are right? sed Ma.

Hardly, wife, sed Pa. This old wurld is still only partly Sivilized, Pa sed. A short time ago, sed Pa, I went into the reeding room of a swell club to wich I beelong to, sed Pa, & thare was ten men setting in that reeding room ,sed Pa. One of them was reeding Emmerson's Essays, sed Pa & the other nine men was reading the reeturns of the Dempsey & Tunny fite, sed Pa. Thay was supposed to be big men, those club members, sed Pa, & that is how Sivilized we are, sed Pa.

But you must reemember that it was a man't club that you are speeking of, sed Ma. If you had gone into a ladys club you wud of found them speeking about grate toppicks of the day, sed Ma. Wimmen are always looking upward, sed Ma. I doant know why, but thay look up wile men look down, sed Ma.

Well, sed Pa, I know why if you doant. Thay got that way, sed Pa, looking up at men's supeerlur Intelleck, sed Pa, wile men dident haf any supeeriurs to look up to, sed Pa so thay had to look down at wimmen, sed Pa. Ha, Ha.

Ha, ha, is rite, sed Ma That is about the silliest speech I evver herd you malk, sed Ma. The vary idee of you trying to put wimmen on a lower Plain than men, sed Ma.

Why, sed Pa, doant you addermit that wimmen knows less than gents? sed Pa.

I adder-mit nothing of the kind, sed Ma. Some of the keanest brains that was evver on this Plannit was in the heds of beautiful wimmen, sed Ma. How about Madam D. Stale? sed Ma, & Feeby Cary & Felishy Heemans & a lot moar that I cud menshun? sed Ma.

Oh, I doant say thare nevver was any braney wimmen, wife, sed Pa, kind of quick. I only sed that the averidge lady looked up to the averidge gent as a gennerll thing, sed Pa & I may be rong at that, sed Pa, it is jest my noshun.

It is the saim noshun the rest of the men hoald, sed Ma. For thousans of years men has gone along thinking thay are the Briter Sects, sed Ma, & for thousans of years wimmen has made them look like Dodos, sed Ma, & thay nevver knew it wile thay was getting the work, eether, sed Ma.

Maybe men aint smarter than wimmen, I sed, but boys is smarter than gurls, our teecher sed so & she is a gurl teecher, too, I sed, only she is a pritty old gurl.

I daont know jest who is the smartest & who aint but I haf got a hunch that nobody aint so terribul smart in this wurld, there is a Heep we doant know a awful Heep.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

WHY are men afraid of women?

* * *

Before marriage, man lives in the fear of every woman's smile; after marriage he lives in the fear of one woman's frown.

A little boy flees in terror from women for fear they may try to kiss him; a grown man flees in terror from women for fear they may try to marry him.

* * *

At the altar it is not the bride, but the bridegroom, who trembles and stumbles and goes weak in the knees. It is not the bride, but the bridegroom who requires a bracer and six ushers to get him to the church!

* * *

After marriage, a man's fear develops into a positive COMPLEX! If the average husband bore an Indian name it would be "Man-Afraid-of-His-Wife."

* * *

And the bigger and better and more successful the husband, the more he is afraid. A bullying husband is nearly always a lightweight, a doolittle, or a mental, moral and financial pee-wee.

* * *

When a man does anything of which his wife might disapprove, he trembles at the thought of what she may SAY. Yet nothing frightens and paralyzes him like her dead silence!

* * *

"Men were deceivers ever!" But men do not set out deliberately to deceive woman. They are simply afraid to tell any woman the TRUTH!

* * *

The worst woman on earth will hesitate to lie to the man she loves. But the best of men will lie to the woman he loves, sooner than to anybody else on earth!

* * *

It is easier to lie to a woman than to tell her that you no longer love her, or that you have lost your week's salary at poker, or that you left your umbrella at the office, or that you forgot to mail her letter, or that you took your stenographer to lunch, or that you stopped for a drink on the way.

* * *

It is easier to promise to marry a girl, and then sneak off somewhere where she can't get her clutches on you, than to tell her that you are already married, or that you wouldn't marry her on a bet!

* * *

Many a man who rules a vast office force with a rod of iron, all day, is afraid to glance across the room at a pretty girl, or to talk to an attractive woman when his wife is looking on.

* * *

Many a man who handles thousands of dollars and makes a dazzling income, is afraid to spend ten dollars of his own, without telling his wife what he "did with it."

Many a man keeps two checking accounts; one for his wife's eyes; and the other out of which to pay his poker debts, his bootlegger and his charities.

* * *

Why do men creep up the stairs with their shoes in their hands when they come in late? Why do they chew cloves and "breath killers"? Why do they invent alibis and "sick friends" and "conferences"? WHY ARE MEN AFRAID OF WOMEN?

* * *

Men have always prided themselves on their "horse sense." But a horse has just sense enough to let himself be ruled and buffaloed by a human being one tenth his size!

Trade Large, Profits Not; Knox Chose Bible and Gun

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Business is still running in large volume, but complaints of very narrow profit margins are numerous.

B. C. Forbes

The current is running strongly towards bigness. Everywhere you go you hear of small concerns being ground out by bigger ones. The concentration of production in many lines is now so marked that a purely one-man concern cannot earn a substantial living for the owner. We may not like to see the elimination of so many individual owners of business, but the facts are as stated.

* * *

IT MAY interest readers to know that, from the highest authority, confirmation has come of the substantial accuracy of what the writer recently said regarding the size of the Rockefeller fortune. You may recall that the statement was made that the Rockefeller fortune never has reached a billion dollars. Henry and Edsel Ford, [illegible] could sell out for much more than that figure. But, of course, they won't. Young Ford is just as industrious as his father. He is interested in nothing but his work and his family.

The real boss of the Ford family, say those who should know, is Mrs. Henry Ford.

* * *

A FRIEND gives me a most interesting sidelight on the suicide of William E. Knox, president of the Bowery Savings Bank of New York and a former head of the American Bankers' Association.

When the body was discovered a Bible lay at one side and a pistol at the other.

From what one hears the act was not entirely unpremeditated. Mr. Knox had confided that he was undergoing poignant mental suffering because of recent developments in the bank. The conviction of three employes for theft upset the kindly-hearted president of the institution terribly. The trustees began to conduct a thorough investigation of the bank from top to bottom and this threw endless work on Mr. Knox. It is said that he did not like the attitude of at least one of the trustees from whom he had reason to expect nothing but [illegible] co-operation. Being a sensitive soul, this saddened him deeply.

Those of us who knew Mr. Knox intimately would have regarded him as the last man on earth to think of taking his own life. He was the personification of good humor. He was a master of the story-telling art. He was full of native Irish wit and loved to indulge in sparkling repartee.

THE RECENT column on the importance of encouraging and cheering up salesmen has brought in many appreciative comments. One Western reader writes:

"It is only too true that many, many concerns never think of passing out the encouraging word. Personally speaking, we can take care of ourselves when it comes to matter of keeping cheerful in business; but it would be nice, pleasant and very acceptable to receive encouraging letters and these words from the 'higher up' back in the eastern sales office.

"We have been representing, among the several concerns we represent, one firm for over fifteen years on a commission basis, and during all that time do not recall ever receiving a letter that we could wish to treasure as a keepsake, a letter that you read now and then through the years just to help keep alive in the mind and heart that firm has a heart. We haven't received a Christmas card from them for ten years even.

"We are not complaining. We are only emphasizing that sales managers are overlooking the personal touch in welding to their organizations the salesmen out on the 'firing line,' his heart and his continued loyalty."

THE STOCK market became unnecessarily alarmed over the Supreme Court's railway valuation ruling. It decided nothing basic. In effect, the Supreme Court says:

"Congress gave the Interstate Commerce Commission authority to make valuation of railroads. The Commission can go ahead and make them as it sees fit. We cannot and won't interfere. But let the Commission try to carry its valuation into effect in a way to injure the rights of property, and then we shall step in and see that it conforms to the Constitution of the United States in the matter of protecting property."

When the time comes to rule on this fundamental question, the stock market and everyone can depend upon it that the Supreme Court will give the railroads fair play.

SMALL STOCK DIVIDEND PAID BY SAFETY RAZOR

American Safety Razor declared a stock dividend of 1 per cent. and regular quarterly of 75 cents, both payable April 1.

New York Curb

New York, Feb. 26.—Motor and rail stocks were lower in the Curb market today. Brill A declined a point to 43 and Durant eased down to 7⅞. Western Maryland first preferred lost 2 points at 110 and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie receded a point to 177. Lone Star Gas opened at a new high of 44½, up a point.

HOW BOSTON BROKERS VIEW STOCK MARKET

How members of the Boston Stock Exchange view the market is shown in following comment:

Paul Johnson & Co.—The so-called "Spring rise" has appeared in the stock market ahead of time. Good issues continue to offer opportunities for bullish investors.

Charles A. Phelan & Co.—Speculative fires continue to burn brightly and the pot is likely to keep boiling for some time to come. The bulls appear firmly in the saddle.

Tucker, Anthony & Co.—This advance is gaining momentum daily, and subject to technical shake-outs seems destined to run well into the Spring. Leadership of the best is evidenced, while the ability quickly to rally and score new highs, after brief selling waves, provides a strong argument in favor of continued progress.

VACATION PUTS ME. DIVIDEND DATE AHEAD

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor.

We are more or less accustomed to reading that directors failed to secure a quorum on account of members being "on vacation," and thereby missing a dividend. The good companies, of course, are not run in that way. The case of Bangor & Aroostook Railroad this week is interesting. President Percy R. Todd is to take a vacation in March. The directors met and declared the usual dividends on both common and preferred stocks, because it was foreseen they could not meet next month.

Bangor & Aroostook, serving the great potato country, was one of the very few railroads that paid dividends regularly through the stress of the World War and also showed a regular surplus. Mr. Todd has been president since 1918. He came to New England in 1901, and served as vice-president of the New Haven.

During one of the Boston City Hall administrations of about ten years ago the collector told me that it cost more to collect poll taxes than the city received from them. He was in favor of their abolition. They have been abolished in some cities. City Collector George H. Johnson informs me: "There are no figures available to show the per dollar cost of poll tax collections as the department expenses are not allocated to any division, and all employes are required to assist in each emergency.

G. H. Johnson

"Previous to 1918 the average collection of poll taxes was about 33 per cent. during the next two years a determined drive was instituted which doubled the percentage of collections. Then came the civilian war poll tax of five dollars, for a period of four years, and due to a patriotic duty to the soldiers, the first year produced a collection of 80.21 per cent, which gradually reduced to the low mark of 63.68 per cent. For the past three years due to constant reminders, threats and issuance of warrants the collections have averaged over 69 per cent.

"The police department listing is effected on the first day of April and afterward assessed through the assessing department, the warrant and bills reaching the collecting department late in June, by which time thousands have moved to other locations. When consideration is given to the fact that the moving population is estimated at over 20 per cent., rendering it necessary to follow the constantly changing addresses, the result is a very good showing. This department is of the opinion that the police should be of material assistance and follow the changes of address.

"While on the subject of collections it may be of interest to scan the following comparative table of collections and cost of collections for the city of Boston and County of Suffolk, showing the cost for the past fiscal year to have been $3.42 per thousand dollars, denoting a decrease of $64,684.82 in the cost of collection for the year 1926 as compared with the year 1924-1925 at the rate of that year.

Years	Total Collections	Cost of Collection
1926	$79,155,478.90	$270,913.77
1925 (11 mos.)	65,885,967.02	261,701.66
1924-25	63,000,279.93	262,729.75
1923-24	62,387,276.89	224,702.05

Another New Englander heads an electrical company, and it is one of his own organizing. He is Robert C. Lanphier, formerly of New Haven. The company is the Sangamo Electric Co. of Springfield, Ill. President Lanphier is noted as developer of an electric meter.

PARK UTAH LARGEST PRODUCER OF SILVER

Park Utah Consolidated Mines Co. was largest producer of silver in the United States in 1926 with an output of 5,196,642 ounces. The company, whose shares are listed on the New York Stock Exchange, earned in 1926 roughly 80 cents a share on the 2,078,363 shares of stock outstanding as, with prices of metals low, the company concentrated upon development and produced only sufficient ore to earn the annual dividend of 60 cents a share by a safe margin.

Park Utah is not only the largest producer of silver in the United States but was in 1926 the largest producer of both lead and zinc in Utah.

GERMAN BONDS TO BE PAID IN PART

Notice to both "old" and "new" holders of certain German bonds that these issues will be paid at least in part was made public in Boston today.

The Mark Loans of the German Reich (i.e.—either direct issues of the German Reich, or such bonds of the following German States: Prussia, Bavaria, Saxony, Wuerttemberg-Baden, Hessen, Mecklenburg-Schwerin, Oldenburg as have been taken over by the Reich), which have not been delivered for exchange in the revaluation procedure provided for "old holdings," will be exchanged, in accordance with the German Law of July 16, 1925, whether acquired prior to or since July 1, 1920, at the rate of 2½ per cent. of the gold value. Excluded from revaluation is the Forced Loan (Zwangsanleihe 1922). The face value of all bonds issued up to the end of 1918 is equal to the gold value.

A claim for exchange exists only so far as the bond holder submits Mark Bonds representing Goldmarks 500 or a multiple thereof. The bonds must be accompanied by the coupon sheets.

The time limit set during which the bonds must be delivered for exchange is from February 15 to June 30, 1927. Bonds which have not been submitted during this time become void, and no longer represent any claim against the German government.

List of banks where the bonds will be accepted includes in New England only the National Shawmut Bank.

The banks, against the surrender of the bonds, will deliver a receipt stating the face amount of the bonds surrendered by such applicant. This receipt should be kept, as the new bonds will only be delivered against the surrender of this receipt.

This exchange procedure does not affect bonds of States not mentioned in this statement and city bonds.

A time limit for the exchange of this class of bonds will be set at a later date.

Counselor Hans Kruezer, the German Special Commissioner, 48 Broadway, New York city, who is ready to answer inquiries, urgently requests applicant not to forward any bonds to his office.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but [illegible] State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

For Christmas, Perhaps

But Not for the Whole Year

GREETINGS
DONT BE CAREFUL, JUST BE CHEERFUL!

THIS IS MR. STUDDY'S CHRISTMAS GREETING

Many have seen in The American Weekly, published with the Hearst Sunday newspapers, the pictures of cheerful little dogs drawn by the Englishman, Mr. G. E. Studdy. The above picture by Mr. Studdy, in a cheerful mood, was sent as a Christmas greeting to his friends. This happy puppy has a large tankard of beer beside him, a turkey drumstick on a fork in one paw and a heavy piece of plum pudding at the end of a knife in the other paw.

The motto Mr. Studdy chooses to adopt is, "Don't be careful, just be cheerful."

The British artist uses that motto on Christmas ONLY. He is successful, and therefore you may be sure that on all but Christmas days, and on Christmas days also very likely, he is at least as careful as he is cheerful.

Many that never get anywhere and don't succeed take this advice, "Don't be careful, just be cheerful," too literally, and too CONTINUOUSLY.

Government Meddling

Multiplication of Dry Enforcement Agents Threatens Us With "One Officer for Every Ten Persons"

A very striking and true statement by Senator Borah recently declared that centralization is digging the grave of our government, that bureaucracy imperils popular rule in this country, that government meddling is undermining the ability of citizens to manage themselves in the future.

Senator Borah furthered that "there will soon be an officer for every ten persons in the Republic."

He says that "every conceivable action of mind and body will be under the direction and surveillance of a bureau."

He says that "taxes will be $100 per capita. Forty per cent. of the National income will be demanded for the public expenses."

Any reader is justified in thinking that the Idaho Senator is exposing the evils and perils of the prohibition law.

It is the outstanding and the most resented instance of the government putting "every conceivable action of mind and body under the direction and surveillance of a bureau."

Its "inspectors and spies leer upon the citizen from every street and corner." They "accompany him hourly in his daily vocation." They even follow him home and snoop and sniff and peer at him there.

It is the multiplication of prohibition enforcement costs and agents which threaten us with "one officer for every ten persons in the Republic with taxes of $100 per capita."

The astounding thing is that the brilliant and logical Senator from Idaho can paint this alarming picture of the future and yet be one of the pillars supporting the prohibition law, which is driving us to this future.

How does Senator Borah reconcile his excellent principles with his championship of the law which most flagrantly violates those principles—a law, moreover, which has created more bitterness and resistance among citizens than anything in the history of the Nation—a law which daily gets further from achieving its object, temperance?

Drug Addiction a Waste

Minimum Expenditure on "Dope" by Average Victim $5 a Day

The economic waste in drug addiction is not its worst feature, but it is bad enough.

Students of the problem estimate at $5 the daily minimum expenditure on "dope" by its average victim.

A city with 15,000 addicts sees annually a direct waste of $27,375,000, to which must be added the waste in impaired earning power and the extra cost in policing which this habit entails.

As Henry M. Leland, of Detroit, an authority, has pointed out:

> "Most addicts are incapable of earning the money they spend for the drugs, so they get it any way they can—by shoplifting, by robbing automobiles or by holding up pedestrians, stores, banks.
> "They steal a tire which perhaps cost the owner $30, but for which they get $5 or $10. They take a watch which may have cost $100, but for which they get $20. They steal a ring that cost $25 and get $5 for it. They steal a suit of clothes which cost $75, but for which they get perhaps $10.
>
> "Ninety per cent. of the petty crimes in this country can be directly attributed to users of narcotic drugs."

Society needs to arouse in self-defense.

SAMENESS IN DOING WRONG ALWAYS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A CANVASS of citizens in public and private life in New York the other day revealed the fact that they did not make any New Year resolutions, but that they wanted bigger and better sins.

The trouble with sins is that there are too few of them.

There is too much of a sameness. There are only ten commandments and when you have broken them all there is nothing to do but go back and break them over.

After all, the sinning business seems to run pretty much in a rut and the people whose nerves are most greatly affected and are the most bored are those who make a business of sinning.

The problem of being good and doing good is adventurous and unending, whereas the problem of doing wrong is pretty much of a sameness.

You often find those who have dedicated their lives to wrong-doing blase and full of world-weariness, but it is rare to find a man whose life has been occupied in doing good who is not serenely happy.

The human being is like everything else a part of nature. He is just as much a part of nature as a tree is and the way for him to enjoy perfect happiness, as near as possible, is to conform with nature's laws.

And that is what doing good is, merely conforming to the cosmos or the general order of things. When you do wrong it is simply like a loose bolt in a piece of machinery. The whole structure rattles and goes to pieces.

Another name for doing right is keeping one's self adjusted always to the scheme of things. In that case the scheme of things will adjust itself to him, and he will be helped along his way.

The Bible says that in a certain instance, "the stars in their courses" fought against a certain person. And the only way to keep the stars in their course—which is another name or expression for the sum of things—from grinding you to pieces, is properly to adjust yourself to it.

People have been trying experiments in wrong-doing since the world began, and the trouble is they don't work. But probably so long as human fools are born they will continue experiments and continue to find that they don't work.

TAN

WITH a heavy coat of tan—not from L street.—"SMILING JOE" WHALEN is back at his STATE STREET desk with the Hamburg American Line, a strong advocate of the West Indies and the sunny climate, "JOE" has just conducted a tour for the United American Line, out of New York.

SLAVES.

SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE MICHAEL CROWLEY is authority for the statement that 75 per cent. of men arrested in Boston during the past ten years for serious offenses have admitted to him that they used intoxicating liquors. The other 25 per cent. never touched liquor, according to the super. "Drug addicts," he added, "commit many larcenies. These larcenies are for the purpose of getting money with which to purchase more drugs."

SPORTS

Napoleon believed an army's morale was maintained by the fullness of its stomach. MAJOR GENERAL EDWARD L. LOGAN, commander of the 26TH DIVISION, adds a paragraph to Napoleon's theory and says: "Give them plenty of sports." Probably few National Guard divisions in the country indulge more extensively in athletics than the boys of the 26th, both at CAMP DEVENS in the summer and in their armories during the winter. LIEUTENANT-COLONEL WALDRON RAND, general staff, devotes most of his time arranging athletic carnivals throughout the year. Cups and medals are given winners.

PROMOTION

The promotion of WILLIAM FISHER, secretary to MAYOR NICHOLS, as secretary of the Commercial, Industrial and Publicity Bureau at CITY HALL, is by far the most popular move yet made by "hizzoner." William came to CITY HALL thirteen months ago. He is a bright spot in the mayoral family. He is energetic, agreeable and humane.

PALS

FIRE CHIEF "DAN" SENNOTT and his son, CLIFFORD, are inseparable pals. Not a day passes that they aren't together in the downtown section around the noon hour or early afternoon. Both are about the same height, look alike and are frequently taken for brothers, which is a compliment to the CHIEF, who is full of pep and as agile as a youth.

What Do You Know?

If you are the sort of person who thinks that a madrigal is a bird, then these tests should untie many mental knots for you.

Complete these statements accurately: 1. Titian was a Venetian ——. 2. Ural Mountains are in ——. 3. Zenith is the point in the heavens that is exactly ——. 4. Aurora is the goddess of the ——. 5. Feldspar is a ——. 6. Margaret Deland wrote "The Iron ——."

Rearrange these words, so that opposites will be paired:

7. Appease	Robust
8. Feeble	Treason
9. Homage	Riotous
10. Listless	Aggravate
11. Orderly	Eager

With what country do you connect: 12. Bartolome Murillo. 13. Jean Millet. 14. Wendell Phillips. 15. Johann Mozart. 16. Fridtjof Nansen.

See Monday's paper to verify your results. Answers to yesterday's test: 1, plant; 2, bird; 3, St. Lawrence River; 4, planet; 5, contest; 6, collection; 7, smallest; 8, prophetic; 9, mournful; 10, total; 11, James Barrie; 12, Nathaniel Hawthorne; 13, Jane Addams; 14, Elizabeth B. Browning; 15, Eugene Field; 16, John G. Whittier.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

All week you have gone through that devil's litany—opium, morphine, heroin, cocaine—narcotics, hypnotics and the "harmless" bromides that pave the terrible way. All week you have read of the Hellish agony which their addiction brings.

All week you have heard a reiteration of that shameful fact that AMERICA HAS MORE NARCOTIC ADDICTS THAN ANY OTHER NATION IN THE WORLD.

And now, what are you going to do about it?

What does your country's shame and your brother's peril mean to you?

How are you going to guard your own life against this menace and prepare your child to fight it.

MUST KILL SERPENT

Work for better legislation? Yes, but that isn't enough.

Help build institutions for the proper treatment of those who have contracted the terrible habit? Yes, but that isn't enough.

Fortify yourself and warn your child against trifling with the various forms of opium or the vendors who sell such things? Yes, but even that isn't enough.

You must drive deeper than that if you do your share toward eliminating the dope evil.

You must dig down to the very foundation of individual character and public opinion.

YOU MUST KILL THE DOPE SERPENT WHILE IT IS STILL IN THE EGG, BEFORE IT IS HATCHED INTO ACTION.

AND THAT EGG LIES, NOT IN INDIA OR CHINA OR MEXICO, BUT IN OUR OWN LIVES AND THOUGHTS.

Why is America in the grip of dope addiction?

Is is because evil agencies are brewing the poison in the Orient?

NO.

IT IS BECAUSE AMERICAN LIFE HAS DRIFTED INTO A CONDITION WHERE WE CRAVE DOPE.

Dope eases pain.

Dope helps us escape reality.

Dope speeds things up and smooths things down.

Dope gives an illusion of health and strength, power and beauty. We want these things.

EASY WAY OUT

We have turned away from the old, hard, tedious, sane ideals and we are chasing bubbles.

We want to get out of hardship, escape from tedium, evade responsibility and duck painful consequences. We want pleasure and power and pep and we want them in a hurry. We don't want to work for them or wait for them.

"Make it snappy," we cry to life and reach out our uncalloused hands greedily for the baubles we desire.

But suppose life won't hand them to us?

And we haven't grit or patience enough to win them for ourselves?

What then?

Then many of us try to "snitch them" by some easier way.

Alcohol—That's one way out of trouble—one way into pleasure.

The "harmless non-habit forming hypnotics" — vernol, trional, sulfonal, the bromides—there's another quick and easy way.

Aspirin tablets—they sound harmless, don't they? Do you know how many people eat aspirin as they would peppermint drops?

Easy ways out—easy ways to ward off pressure and pain and get at least a temporary illusion of peace and strength.

ALL NEED TO FIGHT

And they all pave the way for dope—they're the REAL "smuggler" across the border.

If you're going to fight dope, begin there.

Tell your child to begin there—inside his own nature, in the secret, slimy places of his own cowardice and laziness.

Tell him that the dope habit doesn't begin with a pill or pipe or 'shot in the arm.' TELL HIM IT BEGINS IN BEING A COWARD—A SLACKER WHO TRIES TO RUN AWAY FROM LIFE.

Tell him that no vendor is as deadly as the vendor who peddles excuses and alibis.

Make him realize that he isn't safe from drug adduction simply because he is well born, popular, education, healthy—

THERE IS NO PERSON IN AMERICA TODAY, MAN, WOMAN OR CHILD WHO DOES NOT NEED TO FIGHT, FOR HIS OWN SELF AND THE DEADLY PERIL OF DOPE.
